CHOTA NAGPUR.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1904.

Though no marked weather disturbance occurred in Bengal during December, pressure distribution, with the exception of the period at the beginning and that at the end of the month, showed a slight deviation from the normal in so much that an area of relatively low pressure maintained itself towards the west and the north-west of the province. In normal years pressure increases continuously towards the north-west of the Indian land area, and though the departure from this distribution in the present year was very slight and amounted to no more than the maintenance of a shallow diffused area of comparatively low pressure over the United Provinces and the adjacent parts of the Central Provinces, it was sufficient to cause the weather, especially in the Western districts, to show a considerable departure from the type that obtains in normal years.

At the beginning of the month high pressure with bright cool weather prevailed over the whole province. Weather was disturbed in the extreme south-west of the bay from the 2nd to the 6th, but this disturbance had practically no effect on the weather in Bengal beyond causing a few showers in Orissa. Small changes in temperature had accompanied this disturbance; but, apart from some slight fluctuations, weather remained cool in the eastern parts of the province up to the 8th or 9th, though it had commenced to be somewhat hotter than usual in the Western districts as early as the 7th of the month.

On the 8th the abnormal distribution referred to above had already begun to show itself in the west, and light southerly winds were reported from Bihar on that date. At the same time a fall of the barometer set in, and pressure for the first time in the month was below the normal on the 9th. This change of distribution was accompanied by a rise in temperature, and by the 10th unusually warm weather prevailed over the whole province and Assam.

Pressure was at its lowest on the 10th, but continued below the normal till about the 13th. The abnormal conditions, however, still held good, and, with slight fluctuations in the north-east of the province, exceptionally high temperatures ruled throughout the province.

Pressure had again begun to show an upward tendency on the 16th, and there were indications of a return to normal cold-weather conditions, an area of high pressure being shewn over the United Provinces on the morning of the 19th. This apparent improvement in the weather was, however, checked by the development of a cyclonic storm in the south-west of the bay, which first gave signs of its existence about the 17th or 18th. This storm, after remaining stationary for two or three days began to move slowly in a north-north-easterly direction on the 19th, and though it apparently dissipated not far from the centre of the bay on the 22nd, its influence was felt in the province up to the 23rd. During the whole of the period of its development and progress northwards cloudy weather was experienced in the province, and very light local rain was received in Orissa and North and East Bengal. While the disturbance lasted, pressure remained either normal or slightly above over the province, while temperature was everywhere in excess.

It was only about the 23rd that a change of weather set in over Bengal, the distribution of pressure on that date becoming once more fairly normal and remaining so with inconsiderable variations till the end of the month. Weather again became cool and pleasant, with cloudless skies and rising pressure, and though the conditions were still a little unstable by the end of the month weather had become fine and settled over the whole province.

Summary of pressure.—Pressure was high for the first week of the month as well as for the last, rising to a point at the end of December far in excess of the normal. Though a fall of the barometer set in after the first week and brought the pressure considerably below the average on the 10th, the period of low pressure did not endure very long, and during the latter half of the period of abnormal distribution in the middle of the month the departure from the normal was always unimportant. The monthly mean pressure was therefore considerably above the normal over the whole province, the greatest excess amounting to $\frac{1}{10}$ of an inch at Sirajganj.

Summary of temperature.—With the exception of the same periods at the beginning and the end of the month, mean temperature was also in large excess, night temperatures being especially high during the middle period of the month, as the cloudy weather which obtained for a portion of the month helped to keep the day temperature at a point not far removed from the normal. Further, the high temperatures, which set in during the earlier part of December, gradually extended from west to east, so that cool weather prevailed for a longer period in the eastern and north-eastern districts than elsewhere. As a consequence of these variations mean temperature for the whole month was above the normal over the whole province, except North-East Bengal and a small portion of North Bihar. A similar line of demarcation is shown for the minimum temperature, while, on the other hand, excess in mean maximum temperature is confined to South-Western Bengal, Chota Nagpur and portions of South Bihar.

Summary of rainfall—Rainfall for the month, which is of course always very light, was this year exceptionally so. Orissa, which was affected slightly by both of the disturbances in the south-west of the bay, received one-fourth of an inch, which is practically its normal amount. South-Western Bengal received no rain at all, and North Bengal and Chota Nagpur practically none. In East Bengal weather was showery on the 10th and 11th, as well as from the 21st to the 23rd, while in Bihar the rain fell chiefly from the 16th to 18th, and was due to an area of low pressure in Central India. The amounts, however, in both cases were below the normal, that in the former being only three-eighths of the usual precipitation.

The following table gives the average rainfall for each Division, month by month, throughout the year, expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for each month :—

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the Dine's pressure tube anemometer and the Standard dial anemometer, as the Beckley's anemograph is under repair.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day ⌓, dew; o, overcast; d, drizzling rain.

AMENDMENT OF THE RULES GOVERNING THE ADMISSION OF MEMBERS OF THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE TO INVALID ANNUITIES

No. 77, dated Calcutta, the 21st January 1905.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE Government of India have had under their consideration the question of the suitability of the existing rules governing the admission of members of the Indian Civil Service to invalid annuities Under article 561 of the Civil Service Regulations, a member of the Indian Civil Service who has been twenty-five years in the service and who has rendered twenty-one years' active service is entitled on his resignation of the service being accepted to an annuity of £1,000. An officer who is declared by a medical certificate to be incapacitated for further service and is therefore permitted to resign the service before he is entitled to such an annuity, is entitled under article 564 of the Regulations to a gratuity or annuity calculated as follows :—

(i) if he has been in the service for less than five years—a gratuity of £500.

(ii) if he has been in the service for five years or more—an annuity of £150, plus £20 for each complete year of service in excess of five; provided that the whole annuity shall not exceed £450

2. The Governor-General in Council considered that the difference between the annuity of £1,000 for which an officer is eligible after twenty-five years' total and twenty-one years' active service, and the maximum annuity of £480 to which he can look if his service falls short by ever so small a period of either of these terms, was so great that acute feelings of disappointment and distress were naturally aroused on every occasion when ill-health forced an officer to retire when he was within a short distance of completing his qualifying service. His Excellency in Council recognised that as a consequence of this disproportionate difference between the two amounts officers whose health had completely broken down were sometimes led to struggle to the utmost to complete their full term of service to the serious detriment of their health Moreover in the interests of the public business it appeared to the Government of India eminently undesirable that a strong inducement should be offered to officers of impaired physique to remain in the service for the sake of securing their full pension.

3 The Government of India accordingly made proposals to His Majesty's Government with the view of removing what they regarded as a reproach upon the administration and they are now pleased, in accordance with the orders received from the Secretary of State, to lay down the following revised scale of invalid gratuities and annuities in lieu of that contained in article 664 of the Civil Service Regulations. In future an officer incapacitated within the term of that article will be entitled to receive:—

(i) for less than five years' service—a gratuity of £500;

(ii) for five years' completed service—an annuity of £150, rising by £20 for each additional year up to twelve;

(iii) for twelve years' service—an annuity of £290, rising by £30 for each additional year up to twenty-three;

(iv) for twenty-three years' service—an annuity of £620;

(v) for twenty-four years' service—an annuity of £660;

(vi) for twenty-five years' service (of which less than twenty-one have been active service)—an annuity of £700.

The effect of these orders is to enhance appreciably the annuities earned by service of more than twelve and less than twenty years, and very considerably those earned by service of more than twenty years. It is not intended to give retrospective effect to the introduction of the amended scale. The Governor-General in Council trusts that these orders will obviate the occurrence of all such cases of hardship as have occasionally resulted in the past

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to Local Governments and Administrations for information and for communication to all members of the Indian Civil Service serving under their orders, and to the Foreign / Finance / Public Works / Revenue / Legislative Department for information and necessary action: also that the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

ALLEGED ASSAULT ON THE STATION MASTER OF BARUIPUR

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR said:—

(a) May I invite the attention of Government to two paragraphs in the Bengalee of the 13th and 16th December last in which it is stated that on or about the 10th idem two Military Officers of Fort Chingreekhal assaulted the Station Master of Baruipur, in the southern section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway, while the latter was on duty. Are the facts stated in the said two paragraphs substantially correct?

(b) If so, will the Government be pleased to inquire what action has been taken by the Government Railway Police at Sonarpur on the telegraphic information which the Station Master is said to have then and there despatched about the occurrence?

(c) Is it also true that the Assistant Station Master and two porters of the station were also beaten by the said Military Officers? And will the Government be pleased to inquire if they (the Assistant Station Master and the porters), or any of them, lodged any complaint before the Police under section 121 of the Railway Act?

(d) Will the Government inquire and ascertain what action the Police have taken in the matter, the offences being cognizable ones? Were these cases, or any one of them, sent up by the Police for trial? If not, why not? Is the suggestion correct that the Assistant Inspector-General, Railway Police, had issued orders not to challan these cases?

(e) Is it true that the Head-Constable of Sonarpur took down the statements of the two Military Officers concerned? If so, what was their statement? Did they admit or deny the offences charged against them?

(f) Is it a fact that the District Magistrate of Alipur also caused an inquiry to be made into this matter? If so, what was the result of such inquiry?

(g) Will the Government be pleased to call for all the papers connected with this incident and satisfy itself as to whether the cases referred to should not be judicially tried and disposed of?

The Hon'ble MR. CARLYLE replied:—

"The occurrence to which the Hon'ble Member refers was reported to Government on the 12th December, 1904.

"2. On the morning of the 10th December last, two Military Officers, named Captain Chrystie and Lieutenant Ford, were travelling by train from Diamond Harbour to Calcutta with two servants. When the train arrived at Baruipur, the servants, who were in a third-class carriage, prevented some passengers from entering their compartment. An altercation ensued; and the Station Master, to whom the passengers complained, ordered the servants to alight; and, on their refusing to do so, he proceeded to remove one of them from the train by force with the help of some railway employés. The other man, who was Captain Chrystie's servant, then ran to the carriage in which his master and Lieutenant Ford were travelling and informed them that Lieutenant Ford's servant was being assaulted by some natives. The two officers on hearing this left their carriage and saw the servant struggling in the hands of five men. Lieutenant Ford went up and, in order to rescue his servant, struck at these men with a small bamboo cane which he was carrying.

"3. The Station Master of Baruipur reported the occurrence by telegram to the Officer in charge of the police outpost at Sonarpur, and also deputed the Assistant Station Master to lodge a complaint. The Head-Constable in charge at Sonarpur met the train on its arrival at that place, and, as it stopped there for only a few minutes, he came on with the party to Calcutta, the Assistant Station Master also travelling in the train with them. At Balliaghatta the Assistant Station Master and the two officers proceeded to the Railway Police Station, where the former charged Lieutenant Ford with committing an assault on the Station Master of Baruipur and on a pointsman and a porter. Lieutenant Ford admitted that he struck at the men who were holding his servant, but absolutely denied having assaulted the Station Master, and cited Captain Chrystie as a witness.

"4. It was found that the porter had a slight mark on the neck, and the pointsman a similar mark on the forehead; and it was proved that they were not in uniform at the time they were struck, and that there was nothing to show that they were railway employés. It was held, therefore, that no offence under section 121 of the Railway Act had been committed, and, as the assault was a non-cognizable offence, the informant was referred to the Criminal Courts. No complaint, however, was made before the Magistrate by either the Station Master, porter or pointsman. The action of the police was approved by the Traffic Superintendent, Eastern Bengal State Railway; and Lieutenant Ford subsequently wrote to that officer expressing regret for the occurrence, and his apology was accepted.

"5. The District Magistrate of the 24-Parganas on hearing of the occurrence also had an enquiry made, and deputed an Inspector of Police to investigate the case. The Inspector submitted a report on the subject, on receipt of which the District Magistrate came to the conclusion that the case was non-cognizable, and that it lay with the parties concerned to lodge a complaint before the Court if they desired to proceed with the matter. As already indicated, however, no such complaint was made by any of those concerned.

"6. The Lieutenant-Governor, before whom the papers were laid, also considered that, as the case was non-cognizable, it was for the aggrieved parties to take the initiative in the matter by lodging a complaint in the manner prescribed by law. In these circumstances His Honour was of opinion that it was unnecessary for Government to interfere."

THE PROVINCIAL AND SUBORDINATE CIVIL SERVICES.

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU, in the absence of the Hon'ble BABU NALIN BEHARI SIRCAR said:—

(a) In the concluding sentence of paragraph 2 of the Government Resolution No. 5619A., dated the 26th December, 1904, on the subject of recruitment of the Executive branch of the Provincial Civil Service and the Subordinate Civil Service, it is stated that "they (the Government of India) came to the conclusion that the system of competitive examination is not a suitable or satisfactory system of admission to the Government service in this country. The Lieutenant-Governor fully concurs in the opinion expressed by the Government of India in this matter." Will the Government be pleased to specifically state the data upon which the conclusion referred to in the quotation is based?

(b) In the same paragraph it is further stated:—"Sir John Woodburn replied in Mr. Buckland's letter No. 3382A., dated the 3rd August, 1902, that after a sifting inquiry he had come to the conclusion that competitive examinations did not secure for the Government even the best scholars of the University, and were otherwise unsuitable as a test of qualifications." Will the Government be pleased to state (i) the specific points in regard to which the sifting inquiry referred to in the quotation was made, and (ii) the nature and the mode of inquiry instituted?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table all papers in connection with the inquiry that was held for the information of the public?

(d) With reference to the 33 appointments by competition (the men at the top of the list) during the last eleven years (1893 to 1904), referred to in paragraph 3 of the Resolution quoted above, will the Government be pleased to state whether (i) all, and, if not all, (ii) how many of them have proved to be unsuitable for Government service, and (iii) in what respects have they been found unsuitable?

The Hon'ble MR. CARLYLE replied:—

"In regard to question (a), the Bengal Government considers that the views of the Government of India are sufficiently explained in their Resolution of 11th March, 1904, on Indian Educational Policy; and the data on which the conclusion of the Government of India is based seem to be clearly enough indicated.

"2. In regard to question (b), the specific points to which the enquiry ordered by the late Sir John Woodburn was directed were: (1) as to whether the competitive system appeared to succeed in ensuring that the recruits possessed an equipment of any special value, and (2) whether there was reason to believe that its appreciation of the relative merits of the candidates was accurate. The method of enquiry adopted mainly consisted in an examination of the educational history and qualifications of the successful candidates. Both questions were answered in the negative; and it was therefore regarded as unnecessary to maintain a special examination.

"3. In regard to question (c), the Government does not propose to lay on the table the papers connected with that enquiry.

"4. In regard to question (d), it is not considered necessary to discuss the question as to how many officers appointed under competition have proved unsuitable. Unsuitable men will no doubt be appointed under any system. But it is claimed that success in the University is a better test of general ability than success in a special competitive examination."

STEAM FERRIES IN THE RIVER HOOGHLY

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU, in the absence of the HON'BLE BABU NALIN BEHARI SIRCAR asked:—

(a) Will the Government be pleased to state what steps are being taken to amend the Calcutta Port Act for enabling the Commissioners to establish and work the steam-ferries in the river Hooghly?

(b) When is the Bill likely to be introduced into the Council?

The Hon'ble MR. HORN replied:—

"This Government submitted the draft of a Bill to amend the Calcutta Port Act, III of 1890, for the approval of the Government of India some months ago. This draft Bill has been amended in accordance with a suggestion made by the Government of India. One of the clauses of the draft Bill empowers the Port Commissioners to establish and work steam ferries on the Hooghly. As it is necessary for the Government of India to obtain the sanction of the Secretary of State to the proposed legislation, it will not be possible to introduce the Bill in this Council before March."

THE BENGAL SMOKE-NUISANCE BILL, 1904.

The Hon'ble Mr. Carlyle moved that the time for the preparation of the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the abatement of nuisances arising from the smoke of furnaces or fire-places in the town and suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah, and to provide for the extension thereof to other areas in Bengal, be extended to the 11th February next. He said:—

"It was impossible to get replies from all the bodies consulted by to-day, so that I must ask for a further extension of time."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council then adjourned to Saturday, the 11th February, 1905.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the Dine's pressure-tube anemometer and the Standard dial anemometer.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day ☁, dew; o, overcast; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; ≡, fog.

2 The Collector of the district is responsible for the collection of water-rates.

3. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

ON BLOCKS.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks demarcated by suitable boundaries, and in order to equalise the area to be dealt with each year, shall determine the date of expiry of the leases in each block, so that as far as practicable one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease every year.

6. Each block, determined as above, shall be numbered and marked on the maps to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officer, and shall also be recorded with its irrigable area in the registers to be kept by him.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (IV) shall fall due on the 1st July following.

The rates for water to be supplied under rule 13 (V) shall be payable before water is supplied.

16. Water-rates imposed under rule 24 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made and shall be realised at once.

ON REMISSIONS.

17. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or in part, shall be granted as follows:—

(i) By the Divisional Canal Officer for errors in assessment or rates.

(ii) By the Divisional Canal Officer for injury to a crop on a leased area caused by a deficiency in the supply of water.

A written application must be made at least 20 days before the crop is cut.

18. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

19. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is not realisable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

20. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act or making reference under section 17 of the Act the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

ON CULTIVATORS' REPRESENTATIVES.

21. When a lease is entered into, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall be generally acceptable to the cultivators and shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed. Jait raiyats or gumashtas shall usually be selected, or if it is undesirable in any particular case to appoint the jait raiyats or gumashtas, the reasons for passing them over and selecting others in preference are to be noted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer in the list of cultivators' representatives to be maintained by him.

22. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurement of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving parchas and distributing them.

VI.—In attending, when required, at enquiries and complaints.

VII.—In reporting to the zilladars any mutations of holdings of persons who have signed a long lease.

VIII.—In assisting the tahsildar in collecting rates.

23. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his own occupation, which may be within the boundaries of the long lease, subject to a limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer may disallow this free irrigation and recover the rates, in whole or in part, from the jait raiyat or gumashta or other representative, if the assistance specified in rule 22 has not been efficiently rendered to the satisfaction of the local officers. The reasons for such disallowance are to be recorded in the list of cultivators' representatives maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

ON UNAUTHORISED IRRIGATION.

24. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre shall be charged; this rate may, however, be reduced at the discretion of the Divisional Canal Officer.

25. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken in an unauthorised manner, he shall hold a local investigation, and, if he considers that water has been taken in this way, he shall serve a notice on the persons liable to be assessed, fixing a date for hearing objections. Any objections made shall be taken down and the whole record forwarded to the Divisional Canal Officer for disposal.

26. The Divisional Canal Officer after hearing any objection that may be raised shall, if he is of opinion that the area should be assessed, fix the rates allowed under rule 24 and dispose of the case within one month of the receipt of the record from the Subdivisional Canal Officer. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorised irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

27. Applications may be subsequently received from villages in which unauthorised irrigation has been detected, and those villages may be granted leases; but in such cases the persons assessed under rule 24 shall also pay the water-rates due in respect of the lease subsequently granted, provided that the total of these two rates shall not exceed the maximum rate chargeable under rule 24. In such cases of double assessment the Divisional Canal Officer may remit, in whole or in part, the rates assessed under rule 24.

ON PENALTIES AND CANCELLING OF LEASES.

28. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st June next following.

29. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector, direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

(I) Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realising water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up; and also if specially so ordered, until half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

(II) Cancel any long lease if on the 1st June water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

(III) Cancel any lease of which the lands cannot be irrigated from the canal except by passing water over an unleased area.

MISCELLANEOUS.

30. No person shall, without the written permission of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass along or across any of the works, channels, or banks of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords, and ferries and their approaches as have been provided for the purpose.

31. Unless specially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operations of these rules, no officer employed on the canal shall have any interest in the distribution of water from it, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly or in shares with others.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE TEUR (MADHUBAN) CANAL.

The 4th February 1905.

No. 7.—Notification.—With reference to Notification No. 101, dated 19th February 1884, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 20th February 1884 at page 365, and in exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78 and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Teur (Madhuban) Canal, with effect from the 1st April 1905.

D. B. HORN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

1. The revenue administration of the Teur (Madhuban) Canal is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Gandak Circle. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient condition, for the distribution of water to the lessees, and for the closing of the outlets in rotation when required; he is further responsible for the assessment of water-rates.

2. The Collector of the district is responsible for the collection of water-rates.

3. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

4. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those especially provided for in rule 14, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings of the case.

ON BLOCKS.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks demarcated by suitable boundaries, and in order to equalise the area to be dealt with each year, shall determine the date of expiry of the leases in each block, so that as far as practicable one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease every year.

6. Each block, determined as above, shall be numbered and marked on the maps to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officer, and shall also be recorded with its irrigable area in the registers to be kept by him.

ON APPLICATIONS.

7. Any person who requires a lease for water must apply to—

(a) the Sectional Officer, or

(b) the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

These applications must be made in writing and may be on plain paper.

The person receiving them shall enter on the back any further data required.

ON LEASES AND PERMITS.

8. Ordinarily 5-year leases may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or a definite part of a block, under the following conditions:—

(i) No lease for less than 10 acres shall be granted.

(ii) No lease shall be granted when the water must cross unleased lands, unless a suitable village channel exists.

9. Villages which apply for a lease less than five years in advance of the date of expiry fixed under rule 5 will only be granted leases for the remaining years of the term fixed for the block in which they are situated, so that all the leases within the same block may expire on the same date. These leases will be granted under the same conditions as 5-year leases.

10. The Divisional Canal Officer shall issue permits for long leases to the lessees through the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

When water is urgently required, the Subdivisional Canal Officer may grant a season lease which will be cancelled if the long lease is subsequently concluded. The Subdivisional Canal Officer may also issue season leases under rule 13 (III and IV).

When a lease is granted an agreement shall be taken in forms given in Appendices I and III, and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in the forms given in Appendices II and IV.

11. Water for filling tanks may be supplied when available for cash paid in advance; the water taken into the tank may be used for irrigation or any other purpose (Forms of application and permit are given in Appendices V and VI).

12. Water may be supplied by measurement through a permanent outlet, when the working level of the water in the distributary can be kept fairly constant.

ON WATER-RATES.

13. The following rates will be charged for water, whether taken by lift or flow:—

	Rs.	A.
I.—Long leases, 16th June to 15th November ...	1	0	per acre.
II.—Season leases, 16th „ to 15th „ ...	1	8	„
III.— Ditto, 16th November to 28th February ...	0	8	„
IV.— Ditto, 1st March to 15th June	2	0	„
V.—Water supplied to tanks	1	0	per 10,000 c. ft.

ON DEMAND STATEMENTS.

14. The statement of the amounts due for the water-rates leviable under these rules shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Divisional Canal Officer in such form as shall, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. A parcha showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator shall be sent to him through the cultivator's representative when the demand statement is sent to the Collector for realising the amounts. Persons charged under rule 24 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act if they desire to do so.

15. The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (I and II) shall be payable in two equal instalments, falling due respectively on the 1st January and 1st February following, but all sums of Rs. 10 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (III) shall fall due on the 1st April following.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (IV) shall fall due on the 1st July following.

The rates for water to be supplied under rule 13 (V) shall be payable before water is supplied.

16. Water-rates imposed under rule 24 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made and shall be realised at once.

ON REMISSIONS.

17. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or in part, shall be granted as follows:—

(i) By the Divisional Canal Officer for errors in assessment of rates.

(ii) By the Divisional Canal Officer for injury to a crop on a leased area caused by a deficiency in the supply of water.

A written application must be made at least 20 days before the crop is cut.

18. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

19. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is not realisable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

20. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act or making reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

ON CULTIVATORS' REPRESENTATIVES.

21. When a lease is entered into, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall be generally acceptable to the cultivators and shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed. Jait raiyats or gumashtas shall usually be selected, or if it is undesirable in any particular case to appoint the jait raiyats or gumashtas, the reasons for passing them over and selecting others in preference are to be noted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer in the list of cultivators' representatives to be maintained by him.

The reasons for such disallowance are to be recorded in the list of cultivators' representatives maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

ON UNAUTHORISED IRRIGATION.

24. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre shall be charged: this rate may, however, be reduced at the discretion of the Divisional Canal Officer.

25. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken in an unauthorised manner, he shall hold a local investigation, and if he considers that water has been taken in this way, he shall serve a notice on the persons liable to be assessed fixing a date for hearing objections. ESTABLISHMENT OF RURAL PRIMARY SCHOOLS IN BENGAL.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

Calcutta, the 7th February 1905.

RESOLUTION—No. 658.

READ—

The Resolution of this Government No. 1, dated the 1st January 1901.

Paragraphs 21 and 41 of the Resolution on Indian Educational Policy issued by the Governor-General in Council on the 11th March 1904.

THE Lieutenant-Governor has lately had under his consideration the suitability of the courses of instruction followed in primary schools in rural areas in Bengal and of the courses of training given to the teachers of such schools, with special reference to the views expressed on these subjects in paragraphs 21 and 41 respectively of the Resolution on Indian Educational Policy issued by the Governor-General in Council on the 11th March 1904.

2. The suitability of the courses followed in primary schools in this Province was considered in the years 1899 to 1901, with particular regard to the needs of the agricultural population; and the courses as then existing were revised so as to make them considerably simpler than they had previously been. No attempt was made however at that time to differentiate the teaching in primary schools in purely rural areas from that given in similar schools in urban areas or in large villages where there are many educated people; nor was any special course of training for the teachers of such schools devised.

Mr. A. Pedler, M.A., C.I.E., Director of Public Instruction, Chairman.
The Hon'ble Mr K. G. Gupta, Member of the Board of Revenue.
Mr. H. Luson, Commissioner of the Chittagong Division.
Mr. S. L Maddox, Director of Land Records and Agriculture.
The Hon'ble Mr. A. Earle, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department, Secretary.

The Lieutenant-Governor has had these questions investigated by a committee consisting of the marginally-noted officers; and the results of the deliberations of this committee are set forth in the following paragraphs.

3. The Committee observe that it is desirable in the first place to take cognisance of the very great differences between the conditions, in respect of primary education, of Bengal and other Provinces of India. This procedure will, they remark, make it easier to form a correct judgment as regards the questions under discussion. In Bengal there are over 44,000 lower primary schools and about 5,000 upper primary schools; whereas in the Central Provinces the total number of primary schools is only about 2,100. In Bengal 30 per cent. of boys of a school-going age are actually at primary schools, whereas in the Central Provinces the percentage is 15 only. In Bombay the expenditure incurred on schools of this class is three times as great as that incurred on similar schools in Bengal, although the number of schools maintained in the former Province is considerably less. In Bombay and the Central Provinces the teachers receive far higher pay than they do in Bengal. The dissimilarity of conditions in Bengal and the Central Provinces is seen in a striking light when it is stated that the total number of primary schools in the Central Provinces is less than half the number of such schools in the Midnapore district alone.

4. There is a marked contrast in many respects between the departmental Board schools in Bombay, the United Provinces, the Punjab and the Central Provinces and the privately managed indigenous village pathsalas in Bengal. In those Provinces primary schools have been created and developed by Government on the departmental system; whilst Bengal, Madras and Assam have all along operated through the agency of grants-in-aid made to existing indigenous schools. The privately managed schools of Bengal represent nearly one-half of the total number of boys' primary schools in the whole of India, (vide paragraph 452 of the last Quinquennial Review of Education in India). Their main feature is their extraordinary cheapness, the cost per pupil being Rs. 2-7 a year, which is the lowest figure returned by any Province; Rs. 6-4 being, for example, the cost per pupil in Bombay. There is a much greater demand for secondary education in Bengal than in the Central Provinces; and a larger proportion of boys reading in primary schools in this Province aim at carrying their education beyond the primary stage. The existing provision for primary education in Bengal, however, barely touches the needs of the vast agricultural population, neither the courses nor the hours of instruction being suited to their requirements. It is hoped that, if the courses are simplified and shortened, there will be a large accession of scholars of this class.

5. The Committee quote the following passage which occurs in paragraph 21 of the Resolution on Indian Educational Policy of the 11th March 1904:—
"The aim of rural schools should be, not to impart definite agricultural teaching, but to give to the children a preliminary training which will make them intelligent cultivators, will train them to be observers, thinkers and experimenters in however humble a manner, and will protect them in their business transactions with the landlords to whom they pay rent and the grain-dealers to whom they dispose of their crops The reading books prescribed should be written in simple language, not in unfamiliar literary style, and should deal with topics associated with rural life. The grammar taught should be elementary and only native systems of arithmetic should be used. The village map should be thoroughly understood; and a most useful course of instruction may be given in the accounts papers, enabling every boy before leaving school to master the intricacies of the village accounts and to understand the demands that may be made upon the cultivator. The Government of India regard it as a matter of the greatest importance to provide a simple, suitable and useful style of school for the agriculturist, and to foster the demand for it among the population." With regard to these remarks, the Committee find that the principal points in respect of which the rural schools in Bengal are at present deficient are—

(1) the courses of instruction are too long, too advanced and too diversified; and

(2) the prescribed text-books are not written in simple language commonly used by the people.

6. As regards the measures which can, in their opinion, be taken in this Province in order to simplify the courses of instruction in these schools, the Committee observe that there would be very great difficulty in combining half-time with whole-time instruction in the same schools according to the system followed in the Central Provinces. A reference to the Appendix at page 163 of Mr. Sharp's Report on Rural Schools in the Central Provinces will show that there are in all four classes in the primary schools in those Provinces; that the courses of instruction in those schools are the same for all boys up to the second class; and that it is only in the two highest classes that additional instruction is given to full-time scholars. Class III represents the end of the lower primary course, while Class IV represents the upper primary standard. The arrangements in force in those Provinces as regards half-time instruction, though feasible there because the number of half-time scholars is large and the number of full-time scholars inconsiderable, would be impracticable in many parts of Bengal, where a large proportion of the boys would have to be taught whole-time from the commencement of their studies. In the year 1901, the Government of India recommended the opening of separate schools for agriculturists as a comparatively cheap means of conducting a simple form of education; and in Bombay this system has been in force for some years, and now appears to be making progress vide paragraph 509 of the last Quinquennial Review of Education in India). It appears from paragraph 21 of the Resolution on Indian Educational Policy of the 11th March 1904 and paragraph 519 of the last Quinquennial Review of Education in India that the half-time "zamindari" schools which were established in the Punjab have proved a failure. The schools were unpopular and failed to maintain a position by the side of the whole-time schools. The half-time rule was frequently infringed, native arithmetic was universally neglected, and the lessons in the agricultural readers were not practically illustrated by visits to the field. The Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab has, therefore, recently decided to establish a "uniform scheme of schools in rural tracts as distinguished from urban schools, which will not be so ambitious as the present scheme for primary schools and will retain the useful features of the zamindari scheme." A very similar system has recently been introduced in Assam by the Chief Commissioner. The Committee consider that for Bengal also this will be the only practicable arrangement.

facilities for the conversion of existing lower primary schools into upper primary schools wherever the demand for a higher class of primary education appears to be established. It is hoped that while in this way the agricultural classes in purely rural areas will in future secure a system of education which is suited to them, and the number of scholars from such classes will be largely increased, further facilities for more advanced learning will be made available for the classes who wish that their sons should proceed beyond the lower primary stage. The scheme thus briefly outlined is discussed in detail in the ensuing paragraphs.

8. The fixing of the exact hours during which the classes in the proposed rural primary schools should be held will be arranged according to the convenience of the villagers and the seasons of the year. The usual hours kept in primary schools in Bengal are from 6 to 9 in the morning and again from 2 to 5 in the afternoon. The people are accustomed to afternoon hours, and it may still be found convenient to give part of the instruction at that time. The courses of instruction will be shortened, but the number of hours of instruction will be not less than three. Instruction will be given all in the morning, or partly in the morning and partly in the afternoon, according to the convenience of the villagers and the seasons of the year. According to present practice, schools will be closed at seasons when the children are required to assist their parents in cultivating or harvesting, or when the monsoon rains make attendance difficult or impossible, holidays being given whenever an important festival occurs.

9. The Committee are of opinion that there should be only one Infant Class in the proposed rural primary schools. No minimum age should be prescribed; but a child who is over 7 years of age, coming to school for the first time, should be placed in Class I, instead of in the Infant Class. Above the Infant Class there should be only three classes, through each of which it should ordinarily take a pupil one year to pass. It is proposed that the curricula for the Infant Class and the three classes above the Infant Class should be on the following lines:—

A.—Curriculum for the Infant Class.

I. To form with any kind of seed, and afterwards to copy in sand or on the ground—

(a) numbers up to 100 and the multiplication tables up to 10 × 10;

(b) the letters of the alphabet and simple words;

(c) simple geometrical shapes; and

(d) simple examples of addition and subtraction.

II. To recognize—

(a) simple forms shewn by means of models made of wood, etc.;

(b) colours shewn by means of flowers, etc.;

(c) familiar objects, taught from the actual objects or from pictures of them;

(d) familiar animals; and

(e) familiar flowers, plants, etc.

III. To comprehend and remember simple stories.

IV. To sing nursery rhymes and simple household songs.

V. Infant drill, exercises and games.

VI. Children's easy occupations, such as seed-placing in its various applications (in addition to those mentioned in clause I above) and stick-laying. Kindergarten gifts may be used where such are used by the school authorities.

B.—Curricula for Classes I, II and III.

* Subjects 6 and 7 need not be considered as compulsory; but they should be introduced if the staff allows of it.

10. In paragraph 5 above it has been stated that the prescribed text books at present in use in Lower Primary Schools in this Province are not written in simple language commonly used by the people. They are, for the most part, written in more or less Sanskritised language, with not a few scientific terms which are not understood by the villagers. The Committee recommend that a special Committee of expert officers should be formed to prepare model text books for the proposed schools for the sons of agriculturists; and that in preparing these text books the Committee in question should examine carefully the primers used in Bombay, the Central Provinces, the Punjab, Assam and elsewhere. The text books will in the first place be prepared in English. When they have been approved by Government, suitable persons will be selected by the Director of Public Instruction, in consultation with Commissioners of Divisions and Inspectors of Schools, for the purpose of translating them into the local vernaculars. The translations made by them will be approved by the Director after reference to such experts as he may deem it necessary to consult.

11. The Committee consider it to be a matter of great importance that the translations from the model English text-books should be prepared in a sufficient number of local vernaculars. For instance, in Bihar the translations should, they consider, be made in at least three dialects, viz., Tirhutiya, Bhojpuri and Magadhi or Maithali; while in Bengal they should be translated into Northern, Eastern and Central and Western Bengali at least.

12. In paragraph 7 above it has been stated that considerable facilities will be provided for the conversion of existing lower primary schools into upper primary schools wherever the demand for a higher class of education appears to be established. When a lower primary school is converted into an upper primary one, an additional teacher has to be appointed; and this strengthening of the staff necessarily involves additional expense. The Committee propose that the option of converting a lower primary school into an upper primary one should be allowed whenever the local residents are willing to incur their share of the necessary additional expense. When a lower primary school is thus converted into an upper primary one, the newly formed upper primary school will be allowed an increased grant from public funds according to the existing rules for grants-in-aid. The cost of a lower primary teacher is about Rs. 6, whereas the cost of an upper primary teacher is about Rs. 15 a month. Of the Rs. 6 paid to a lower primary teacher, Government pays Rs. 2 and the residents Rs. 4; while of the Rs. 15 paid to an upper primary teacher, the residents pay Rs. 9 and the Government pays Rs. 6. The increased cost to Government will therefore be Rs. 4 a month, or Rs. 50 a year, roughly, for each school so converted. It is hoped that within five years the existing number of upper primary schools (5,000) will be at least doubled. The additional expenditure which will therefore devolve upon Government at the end of that period will be Rs. 2,50,000 a year.

13. The next matter discussed by the Committee was whether the courses prescribed for guru training schools require modification in view of the proposals which they have made in regard to rural primary schools. On this subject they refer to the following passage which occurs in paragraph 41 of the Resolution on Indian Educational Policy of the 11th March 1904:—"Steps are also being taken to supply courses of training specially suited for teachers of rural schools. These do not attempt the impossible task of reforming the agricultural practice of the peasantry by the agency of village school-masters imbued with a smattering of scientific theory. They serve the more limited and practical purpose of supplying the village schools with teachers whose stock-in-trade is not mere book learning, and whose interests have been aroused in the study of rural things, so that they may be able to connect their teaching with the objects which are familiar to the children in the country schools." Just as it is proposed to distinguish between the courses for primary schools for agriculturists and those required for urban areas and places in which agriculturists do not predominate or in which there are a large number of educated people, so it is necessary, in the opinion of the Committee, to make a corresponding distinction in respect of the training of the persons destined to teach those who will adopt agriculture as their means of subsistence.

14. In the first place the Committee consider that the training of teachers for these elementary schools should not, for the present at any rate, occupy more than one year. The scheme of studies in guru training schools as now sanctioned contemplates a training for a period of two years. The Committee consider that if the curricula set forth in paragraph 9 are adopted in respect of rural schools, a course of training for one year will for some time to come suffice for the teachers of these schools, provided that a thoroughly efficient teaching staff is appointed, as recommended in paragraph 17. A great advantage to be gained by this modification of existing orders will be that double the number of trained teachers will be secured within any given period. Hitherto, partly owing to want of funds, and partly to lack of head-pandits trained in first grade training schools to take charge of the guru training schools, the number of teachers turned out for lower primary schools has been a mere fraction of the number that is actually required. Hereafter, if the number of trained teachers is largely increased, it may perhaps be possible to revert to the present system of giving a course of studies for two years.

15. The scheme of studies which the Committee recommend for the training of teachers in rural schools is as follows:—

General Knowledge.

As in Standard III of a vernacular school, or as much as possible of the upper primary course.	1.	Elementary Bengali, Hindi, Urdu or Uriya literature.
	2.	Ditto	ditto	ditto	Grammar and composition.
	3.	Ditto	ditto	ditto	Historical and Geographical Readers.
As in Standard III of a vernacular school, or as much as possible of the upper primary course.	4.	Arithmetic.
	5.	Writing.
	6.	Practical object-lessons for infant classes.
	7.	Agricultural Reader.
	8.	Drawing (free hand and geometrical).
	9.	Practical geometry and mensuration.
	10.	Manual training.
	11.	School drill.
	12	District maps, and, where there has been a cadastral survey, village maps.
	13.	Where there has been a cadastral survey, khatians and khasras and the village note.
	14	Samples of zamindari accounts, zamindari receipts, and pottahs and kabuliyats.
	15.	Letter-writing and deeds.
	16.	School gardening.

Art of Teaching.

	17.	Junior Teachers' Manual (practical portion).
	18.	Practical teaching of infant stages, with special reference to practical object-lessons.

16. The above scheme of studies generally follows that in force at the present time for the training of teachers in lower primary schools; but certain modifications have been made with the object of simplifying the course. Only one new subject has been added, viz., the "Agricultural Reader." The preparation of this text-book will be entrusted to the Director of Public Instruction and the Director of Land Records and Agriculture. It will be in three parts, the first part being adapted for teachers in rural primary schools, the second for teachers in ordinary lower primary, upper primary and middle schools and the third for first grade training schools. This book will be translated into the principal vernaculars in their literary form.

17. The Committee consider it imperative that additional training schools for teachers in rural primary schools should be established without delay, and that the teaching staff to be employed in the training schools should be thoroughly efficient How great are the needs of Bengal in respect of trained teachers is clearly seen when it is stated that the percentage of such teachers in primary schools in this Province is 4·1 only, as against 23·4 in Madras, 34·1 in Bombay, 39·2 in the United Provinces and 48·3 in the Punjab. It is proposed therefore to open special training schools for the teachers of rural primary schools; and it is considered necessary to open as soon as practicable 70 such schools, each capable of turning out 40 teachers a year. The head-master in charge of each such school will be a person who has undergone a three years' course at an agricultural college, and his salary will be Rs. 40 rising to Rs. 50. The second master will be a person who has been trained in a first grade training school, and his salary will be Rs. 20 rising to Rs. 25. The cost of each such school will be approximately Rs. 3,960 a year in respect of recurring expenditure and Rs. 1,450 in respect of initial expenditure. The total recurring expenditure will, therefore, be Rs. 2,77,200, and the total initial expenditure will be Rs 1,01,500. Even at this rate it will take nearly sixteen years to provide Bengal with trained teachers for all the rural primary schools.

18. The Committee consider that the only change required in respect of the prescribed course of studies for first grade training schools, as given at pages 203 to 206 of Rules and Orders of the Education Department, Bengal, is that the third part of the proposed Agricultural Reader (vide paragraph 16) should be prescribed in addition to the existing course. These schools will, as indicated in the last paragraph, supply junior masters for the training schools for teachers in rural primary schools; and it is desirable, therefore, that a certain amount of agricultural knowledge should be imparted at them.

19. At the same time as the action indicated in the last six paragraphs is taken in respect of training schools for teachers in rural primary schools, the existing guru training schools, which will continue to supply teachers for primary schools in non-rural areas, will be reorganised. At present there are about 135 such schools, viz., one for each subdivision. It is proposed to reduce the number of these schools so as to secure greater efficiency as regards the staff and the teaching, but at the same time to arrange so that the same number of the teachers are trained as at present. Under the present system 135 schools turn out 675 teachers a year. In future the same number of teachers will be trained; but the schools will be fewer, each having more pupils; and the training given will be of a much higher character, the salary of the teaching staff being raised to the same scale as that suggested for training schools for teachers in rural primary schools.

20. The Committee consider that gardens should be attached to all first grade training schools, and, wherever practicable, to guru training schools. They observe that the Director of Public Instruction and the Director of Land Records and Agriculture have already been addressed by Government as regards the question of attaching gardens to the first-named class of training schools.

21. The total cost of the scheme recommended by the Committee is approximately as follows:—

	Rs.
(1) For the conversion of lower primary into upper primary schools (paragraph 12 of this Resolution)— Rs 50,000 a year rising to Rs. 2,50,000, or say ...	2,50,000
(2) For the establishment of guru training schools (paragraph 17 of the Resolution)	2,77,200
with an initial expenditure of	1,01,500
(3) For the preparation of text-books (paragraphs 10, 11 and 16) say	10,000

The recurring expenditure will, therefore, be Rs. 3,27,200, rising in five years to Rs. 5,27,200, while the non-recurring charges will amount to Rs. 1,11,500.

22. The Lieutenant-Governor wishes to consult the public before taking action on the proposals of the Committee. He requests therefore that any person who may desire to do so will submit to Government on or before the 15th March 1905 any criticisms which he may have to make in regard to the scheme. It is proposed that the scheme should be introduced with effect from the 1st January 1906.

THE question of remodelling the lines on which vernacular education in the Indian Empire has hitherto been based has, for a considerable time, been exercising the attention of both the Imperial and Local Governments. The following short history of the question was given in the annexed Resolution of this Government No. 1921, dated the 1st July 1899 :—

It was particularly in its relation to agriculture that this question engaged the attention of the fifth meeting of the Agricultural Conference held in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture at Simla on the 6th October 1893. After considering the recommendations made by Dr. Voelcker in paragraphs 527 and 528 of his report on the improvement of Indian Agriculture, the following Resolutions were passed :—

Resolution I.—That in considering the question of agricultural education and progress the Conference desire to express the opinion that it is most desirable to extend primary education among the agricultural classes.

Resolution II.—That, as a general rule, instruction in agriculture should be combined with the existing course of education, and not depend exclusively on separate special institutions.

Resolution III.—That it is most desirable that the Universities should recognise the Science of Agriculture as an optional subject in the course for a degree.

Resolution IX.—That, in the opinion of the Conference, education in the lower schools should be of such a principal character as to fit the pupils for technical pursuits including agriculture, as well as for literary and commercial pursuits.

Resolution X.—That the text-books used in schools should be written in the simplest language ordinarily understood by the people, and should be descriptive of subjects with which they are familiar; also that the use of pictorial lesson charts illustrating familiar objects should be encouraged.

Resolution XI.—That the system of training in normal schools should be adapted to qualify school-teachers to give instruction of the character indicated in Resolution VIII.

Resolution XII.—That in each Province a Committee, in which agricultural officers should be included, should be convened at an early date for the consideration of the questions raised in the preceding resolutions.

The Governor-General in Council, after considering the recommendation of the Conference, and after correspondence with the Secretary of State, determined, before enunciating finally the principles or policy to be adopted to give Local Governments the opportunity of fully examining the various subjects dealt with by the Conference, and with a view to affording them every facility in their investigation, deputed Sir Edward Buck to attend a series of Provincial Conferences and explain the various issues under discussion and the different methods proposed or adopted in other provinces. It was explained that the Government of India believed that "greater success was to be expected from making instruction in the rudiments of agriculture part and parcel of the primary system of instruction in the country than from teaching it as a subject apart from the general educational programme, and that such general enlightenment and intellectual expansion of the agricultural classes as would enable them to perceive for themselves the small reforms which are within their means and opportunities would be more likely to produce substantial results than special instruction in particular agricultural processes." It followed therefore that the educational question which was given to each Province to answer was not merely how to adapt education to the training of agriculturists, but how the plan of instruction should be so fashioned as to promote in the pupils the power of assimilating easily any kind of technical instruction.

2. This phase of the question was discussed at the meeting of the Bengal Provincial Conference held on the 6th of January 1896, and it was suggested that the course of science in primary and middle schools should be reconsidered and so graduated as to include at different stages branches of the elements of agriculture, care being taken to exclude words or ideas of which the pupils could have no understanding. Effect was to be given to this resolution by arranging for the introduction of a compulsory course of Elementary Science, illustrated as far as practicable by object-lessions and the Director of Public Instruction was asked to report how he proposed to give effect to these suggestions. This he did in August 1897, and in March 1898 a stimulus to the establishment of agricultural education was given by the opening of the Agricultural classes at the Sibpur Engineering College. This was, however, only a scheme for a "Higher Agricultural Education" and still left out of account the objects of the original scheme, the pupils of the vernacular schools; and in August 1898 the Lieutenant-Governor called for proposals of a wider nature aimed at a change in the system of vernacular education by the adoption of methods designed rather to develop the minds of the boys than to practice and strengthen their memories. After indicating the points for consideration, he referred the matter for careful discussion and report to a small Committee of educational experts whose names are given in the margin.

3. The Committee submitted a careful and thorough report in April 1899. The full text of it was published in July 1899, and for convenience a copy of it is an annexure to the present Resolution. The Committee came to the introduction that the arms of the Government could only be fulfilled by the conclusion of the methods originally put forward by Froebel and now known under the name of Kindergarten training. Under that system children are trained and not taught in the ordinary acceptation of the word. They are so trained as to do and learn things of themselves. They are encouraged to feel that each one possesses a certain amount of innate intelligence and initiative, the gradual development of which depends on the child himself and his personal activity. They are led to see that eyes, ears and hands all help in the acquiring of knowledge, and these are the channels through which under that system all first knowledge is acquired. Closely allied with the methods of Kindergarten teaching is the so-called object-lesson teaching; and it was the opinion of the Committee that object-lessons must be insisted on if habits of observation are to be fostered, and that they should be made a means for mental exercise and not merely a method of imparting miscellaneous or even valuable information. The Committee remarked that Kindergarten training may be an expensive and elaborate form of education, and that the "Gifts of Froebel," the appliances with which the system is ordinarily carried out in European schools, were beyond the means of Indian schools. They asserted, however, that a form of Kindergarten could be devised for India, which would be suitable to the circumstances and local conditions of the pupils, and which would yet entail little or no expenditure. They advised that the principles they recommended should be worked out on more or less new lines with the use of objects already to be found in almost every primary school. They proposed that the first years of a child's life, from about 5 to 7, should be devoted almost entirely to training the senses and powers of observation. Then would begin the strengthening and development of the memory and reasoning powers. They were of opinion that object-lessons should be a prominent part of the teaching of all classes up to and including the lower primary stage, and that the various subjects taught up to the upper primary stage should be treated as far as possible as object-lessons. Guided by these views, the Committee prepared a syllabus, which is given in detail in the annexed report. Briefly, it was proposed that free-hand drawing and drill should run through the whole course. Manual training for boys should begin in the A class of the lower primary, while needlework for girls should begin in class B of the lower primary. A simple reading course was arranged as follows:—For boys in town schools, some elementary notions of the simplest facts and principles of Botany, Natural History, Hygiene, Physical Science, and Chemistry; for boys in country schools, a similar course, only with agriculture substituted for Physical Science and Chemistry; for girls in both town and country, a similar course of Botany, Natural History, and Domestic Economy only; the readers were to be written in the most simple and comprehensible language, and to be illustrated and explained as far as possible by means of object-lessons. In the Writing course the forms of simple documents which are commonly used by raiyats were to be introduced as exercises. Mensuration was to include a course of simple practical Geometry. In the two highest standards Euclid was introduced as an alternative, instead of as at present a compulsory subject. Under the head of Literature and Poetry, the subject of moral training was to be considered in the selection of pieces.

4. The Committee observed that there were three necessary preliminaries to the introduction of their scheme. First, the immediate introduction of instruction in the new methods into training schools, so as to enable them to turn out rapidly teachers qualified to take up school work under the new system. Second, the training of Inspecting Pandits, Sub-Inspectors, and Deputy Inspectors of Schools, who would have to be familiarised with the new methods. Third, the preparation of manuals for the teachers and text-books for the pupils. They considered that a period of two and-a-half years should be allowed to elapse from the date of publication of the syllabus for schools to adapt themselves to the altered requirements, and they recommended that their new system should be introduced throughout the Province, and not by any partial or local method.

5. The changes recommended by this Committee were of the most vital importance to the interests of education in Bengal. The Lieutenant-Governor therefore published their report for general information, and invited any who might desire to do so to submit criticisms on the proposals. The call was widely responded to. Numerous representations from public bodies were received by Government, and the newspapers commented at length on the Committee's scheme. The criticisms on the whole were not by any means unfavourable. Those that disparaged the scheme were very often based on a misconception of the proposals. Thus, for instance, it was distinctly laid down in the original syllabus that Arithmetic was to be taught as at present, and that both European and Native systems were to be included. Much, however, of the adverse criticism was based on the supposition that instruction in zamindari and mahajani accounts was to be abolished.

Another mistaken conception on which some of the criticisms were based was that the proposed scheme was meant to give scientific and technical education of a character suited to the agricultural classes only. But the Committee expressly declared their intention to give into the hands of pupils lesson-books on subjects with which they have to do every day of their lives, instead of on matters altogether foreign to their experience, and thus to help in cultivating their faculties of observation and making their education more real than it is at present.

A third objection was based on the contention that the proposed scheme aimed at teaching too many subjects, whereas in effect the subjects intended to be taught are Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic, as before, with drill and drawing added, the burden on students being sensibly reduced chiefly as regards the quantity of book work.

This proposed reduction has led very many of the critics to assume that the scheme will discourage the growth of vernacular literature, and they insisted again and again on the importance of literature, on the value of it in helping the development of the emotions, and the neglect of it in the proposed scheme. Indeed, it was said that this neglect would affect the prospects of Bengali literature. The obvious reply to remarks of this nature is that a literature cannot be called into existence by the prospect of books being selected for primary examinations; nor can vernacular literary works of the highest merit be prescribed for elementary schools, since the children would be unable to understand them.

6. The former Committee was reconstituted to consider these reviews and representations, and they altogether held 15 meetings since the 3rd of January 1900. The results arrived at by the Director of Public Instruction and the Committee with regard to the original proposals, as viewed in the light of the criticisms given, will be found in the Director of Public Instruction's report No. 3126, dated 8th May 1900, which is also published as an annexure to this Resolution.

7. After considering the opinions which the public had expressed in answer to the invitation of Government on the scheme suggested, the Committee, in their second report, intimated that in their opinion the original proposals might be modified in the following manner:—

(1) A Literature book should be prescribed for the upper primary course.

(2) The course in Grammar for the upper primary and middle vernacular standards should be extended.

(3) The amount of History and Geography to be taught in the upper primary and middle vernacular standards should be increased, and separate books for Geography and History were recommended.

(4) Bamboo-work and basket-weaving should be omitted from the manual training course, and manual training should be made optional.

(5) The Writing course should be extended up to the last (that is the sixth) standard in the revised scheme, and it would be thus practicable to prescribe the writing of more vernacular documents and accounts than was originally contemplated.

They admitted the danger of accentuating the already existing tendency on the part of parents to send their children to high schools or other English schools at the very commencement of their school-life, and recommended, in supplement of their original proposals, certain measures to check this tendency and to give that prominence to vernacular education which ought to obtain in the early training of Indian boys. They also recommended that a certain elasticity should be allowed at first in the manner of teaching the proposed course.

8. The Committee were not, however, disposed to modify the views they had expressed with regard to the principles on which the system of vernacular education should be based. They declined to abandon the principles of the Kindergarten system. It was, they said, now universally recognised as the best for infant education, and as teaching by object-lessons is only an extension of the same system, the whole scheme they had recommended for the vernacular schools was really based on it.

As to whether the scheme should be tried tentatively or not in the first instance, the Committee were of the opinion, as before, that it should at the outset be brought into action throughout the whole Province.

9. The Committee in their first report had quoted the successful introduction of a somewhat similar scheme in the Central Provinces. It was admitted, however, that manual training had been lately and deliberately excluded from the course there, and the Lieutenant-Governor considered that the brief reference in the Committee's second report to the action of the Central Provinces Government in subsequently abandoning the Kindergarten system in rural schools was a most inadequate notice of a very important experience. It seemed to him that the Committee must justify their proposal by a much more detailed statement and explanation of them, and he desired the Director to answer the following questions:—

(1) How far the Committee's proposal varied from the system which was tried in the Central Provinces and to a certain extent subsequently abandoned; what reasons there were for anticipating a different result for the proposed plan in Bengal and how far the proposals received support from any experience in other Provinces.

(2) Whether the new system should be introduced simultaneously into (a) all primary and middle schools over the whole Province, or (b) into selected areas, or (c) into selected schools.

(3) Whether the new syllabus should be introduced into the lower classes of high schools which correspond to the corresponding classes of middle and primary schools.

10. On the first question, the Director of Public Instruction has furnished an explanation in his letter No. 2223T., dated 17th October 1900, which forms an annexure to this Resolution. He has explained that in the Central Provinces the Kindergarten system has been given up only in rural schools, and in them mainly for two reasons; first, because it has been decided to have in country schools a half-day system, instead of the whole-day course, and second, because the expense was found to be intolerable of the stereotyped and costly European "Froebel's Gifts." The fact that these gifts are quite foreign to an Indian child's experience and that the pupil ordinarily could not handle the gifts and so actually engage in the object-lesson rendered success in this particular experiment in Kindergarten a great difficulty, and almost invited its failure. The Central Provinces system must be modified in the future if it is to become a success, and must be made to suit Indian pupils and Indian circumstances and also be made of such a kind that its cost enables every pupil to take part in the exercise. It is open to very grave doubt, he said, whether the gifts of coloured worsted balls, wooden cubes, etc., which may and do appeal to European children, will appeal equally to Indian children, and hence when the Committee considered the question of the introduction of Kindergarten they very rightly discarded "Froebel's Gifts" altogether, and while accepting Froebel's principles, they attempted to work out the application of his principles by the use of purely indigenous materials, and of such a kind that every child can provide its own gifts to illustrate the principles of teaching.

Hence the withdrawal of the Kindergarten system from the rural schools in the Central Provinces cannot, in the Director's opinion, be taken to represent at all a failure of Kindergarten principles in Indian schools, but it really represents only the want of success of a particular (and for India, a mistaken) form of the application of the principles.

The system proposed by the Committee does not follow at all in the train of the Central Provinces system. They proposed, as the Director explains, to depart entirely from the stereotyped European system, and to introduce simple exercises, which can be made with pieces of string, paper, leaves, coloured cloths, and objects of everyday life, such as a piece of wood, a box, a stool or chair, a table or a school desk, simple lessons about plants. No expensive "gifts" are to be given which children would find to be quite outside their ordinary lives and experiences; but objects found in every school-house and in every village are to be selected and used in the school, and the various faculties of observation, reasoning, descriptive powers, etc., are to be exercised and practised on these familiar objects. School work will therefore be really a developed part of their every-day life, while habits of accuracy and obedience will be inculcated by the process of stick-laying and simple physical exercises and action songs. In the great majority of the subjects in which instruction is to be given, everything which is treated of almost forms an integral part of every-day life in the town or country, as the case may be.

It is not expected that the teachers will, all at once, teach the new subjects well. It is almost certain they will teach them badly, but what is contended is that the teaching cannot be worse than the present entirely mechanical system of training the memory whereby all the other faculties are dulled at the expense of monotonous parrot-like exercises. It is urged that bad teaching with a good educational system will produce better results than bad teaching with a bad and unsound system. Hence the change is considered necessary notwithstanding the grave difficulties which will have to be faced.

The lesson thus given by the Central Provinces is that the failure there was merely the failure of a particular form of practice, and that to be a success in this country the system must be made to suit Indian pupils and Indian circumstances and of such a kind that its cost will enable every pupil to take part in the exercises. All of this the Director has shown can be effected without in any way changing the principles of the system. That such is the case will appear from the references given by the Director as to what is now being done with much success in Madras and Burma, where the practice followed is one suitable to Indian life and circumstances; more especially so in the case of Madras, the authorities of which Province have entirely discarded the uses of the European forms of Froebel's Gifts.

The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that the Director and his Committee have successfully established their case. He believes with him that the Kindergarten plan is the best and truest method of training and developing the intelligence of children, and experience elsewhere confirms the opinion that when the plan is adapted in its form to the circumstances and conditions of the country, it meets with prefect success. He accepts the recommendation of the Committee on this point in principle.

11. As regards the second point, of the three courses possible the first is the one advocated by the Committee in its reports. It is, however, evident that there are very serious difficulties involved in this proposal To introduce the system simultaneously throughout the Province, it would be necessary to attempt to specially train all the primary and middle school teachers in Bengal numbering some 50,000 at the least, some of whom (i.e., those who are in charge of good schools) are fairly intelligent and able, while others are of a very inferior type, such as the gurus who start the so-called season pathsalas. The task of training such an enormous number of teachers would be colossal, and it is feared that the difficulties which might arise in this matter would militate against the success of the scheme and might give rise to doubts as to the soundness of the scheme itself.

In the case of the second plan, limiting the introduction of the scheme to a selected area, the difficulties to be met are of a precisely similar nature to those just described, though smaller in amount The main difficulty in this case would be to teach the inferior type of gurus in their new work within the time which it has been proposed to introduce the scheme. Another difficulty would be that of selection of the areas for experiment, and a further slight difficulty might be found in cases where boys migrated from a school in a selected area to another in which the old course of instruction was still maintained.

In the case of the third course, the proposal would be to limit the compulsory introduction of the new scheme to those schools where boys are being actually sent up for competition for scholarships of the middle, upper primary, and lower primary stages, in which classes of schools the gurus are generally experienced and trained men, and to leave the gurus in schools of a lower type, such as season pathsalas, either to continue to teach as now the old system of instruction, or to attempt the new should they wish to do so, or feel they were competent to undertake it. The number of primary schools, upper and lower, is 47,714, of these not more than 16,444, exactly one-third of the whole, compete for scholarships.

The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that the last is the soundest course. In recently recommending the introduction of reforms of a very similar character into Ireland, the Irish Commissioners were unanimous in considering that the proposed changes "ought to be introduced, not all at once, but gradually and tentatively," beginning with the larger centres. And they based their conclusion on the fact that time would be required to organize the training of teachers of whom those selected for intial instruction would be aided at the outset by the counsel and instruction of expert instructors (page 45 of the appendices to this Resolution). The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that these considerations have equal, if not greater, weight in Bengal. It may be hoped that the inducement held out under this third course to the most competent of the gurus to adopt the new system will succeed in providing the best schools with masters willing to learn and more or less able to become themselves efficient teachers under the guidance and instruction of experts. And progress will be facilitated not only by the initial restriction of the numbers to be trained, but also by the circumstance that those who will come under first instruction will be the best of their class. The Director has now finally arrived at the same conclusion, and the Lieutenant-Governor, accepting, as he has, the principle of the proposals, decides that they shall be carried out by this method. The scholarship examinations for the middle and upper and lower primary schools will accordingly be held in the year 1904 and onwards in accordance with the new courses only, the present scholarship courses being abolished from that date. Also in schools sending up candidates to the upper primary and lower primary examinations from that date, examinations corresponding in standard to the present A and B standard examinations will be held in the new course. On the other hand, in all lower primary schools which do not choose to send up pupils in competition for the lower primary scholarship examinations in the present A and B standards will continue to be held. In schools which send up candidates in 1904 and onwards to the middle vernacular, primary, or lower primary scholarship examinations, two examinations will be held for rewards in the standards set forth in the Committee's report in "third year of infant class" and "standard I" in exactly the same way as examinations in the standards B and A which are held at the present time.

12. With reference to the third point, it appears that till within the last few years the lower classes of High English schools were conducted on a vernacular basis, and are now conducted on what is called the English basis. This means that even in the lowest classes of such schools English is almost exclusively used as the medium of instruction for the subjects that are taught in them. In plainer words a child is taught the rudiments of geography and history through English sentences and English explanations before he has mastered English sentences for himself. It is not surprising that this system has been found to be perfectly disastrous to the sound instruction of the pupils in the English which their parents want them to acquire. The excuse for it lay in the belief that a child could not begin English too young, if he was to be a proficient in the language, and that it is a waste of time to teach him rudiments in his vernacular and the higher stage in English. The experience of even a few years has shown this belief to be entirely false. The child gets his instruction from a master of the lowest class; his instruction is a matter of rote and not of intelligence; and his English is of a type from which it never recovers. This most pernicious plan was begun in private schools; it has extended to the Government high schools and aided schools, apparently from the fear that they would lose pupils if they did not follow suit. No proper investigation of the merits of the two systems appears to have preceded the change of basis, and certainly no formal sanction from the Government has ever been given to the system of teaching children in a foreign language from practically the earliest stages of their instruction. The teaching in the lowest classes of high schools through the medium of English was formally considered and formally condemned at a conference of the Inspectors of Schools which sat early this year, and by which a return to the former vernacular basis of instruction in the lower classes of such schools was advocated. In Sir John Woodburn's opinion the conference were altogether in the right. He has himself been greatly struck in visits to these schools by the frequent inability of the scholars to explain in their own language the meaning of what they read. A system which debars young students from an early training in their own vernacular cannot but be wrong. Where instruction is given from the very commencement of a child's attendance at school in a foreign language, the result could only be what it has proved to be—that the pupil learns merely by rote without in most cases obtaining any intelligent grasp of the meaning of what he is being taught; and if education is to be on a sound basis, we must revert without delay to the system from which we have so rapidly and almost unconsciously departed. In all Government high schools the medium of instruction in the lowest classes will hereafter be in the vernacular, and this will be a condition of aid to the aided schools. Over private schools the Government has no control, but the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that they will, in loyalty to their own vernacular, follow the example that has been set to them, and as an encouragement to that end, he directs that students in the lower classes of high and middle schools corresponding in educational standard to similar classes in middle and primary schools shall be allowed to compete for middle and upper primary scholarships on the same terms as students in middle and upper primary schools. There is at present no examination for such scholarships in the lower classes of those schools, and he hopes that this new privilege will form an effective incentive to the adoption of a system which appeals alike to experience and patriotism. The substitution of vernacular for English text-books in the first three lowest classes is probably the first step necessary to the reversion to the old system.

13. Having decided what should be done, the next and far more difficult step is to settle the manner in which effect is to be given to these conclusions. Obviously, the very first matter to be taken in hand is the preparation of manuals for the guidance and use of the teachers in the new system and of readers for the children; the second is the training of the teachers. Details as to the methods to be followed with reference to the preparation and supply of the requisite primers and teachers' manuals will be published presently, but it is to be clearly understood that one of the essential principles to be followed is that the objects required to illustrate the course of instruction must be such as can be obtained locally and at practically a nominal cost. The Lieutenant-Governor is compelled to anticipate that the compilation of these manuals and primers with the care and clearness that is necessary will occupy the better part of a year. In the meantime, the Kurseong Training School (which will commence work in February and for which a Principal of special experience has already arrived from England) will be utilized in the careful instruction in the system of the masters of the nine other training schools of the Province.

As soon as the teachers' manual have been prepared, a copy will, in the first place, be supplied to each member of the inspecting staff (Inspectors, Deputy Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors, Inspecting Pandits, and Circle Pandits), as well as to every vernacular teacher of the manual relating to the class or classes of schools in which he is interested

A conference will then be held by each Inspector of Schools of all Deputy Inspectors in his circle with the view of discussing the new subjects and methods of instruction, and of dealing with any difficulties which they may have found in the syllabus or in the teachers' manuals.

As soon as the new courses have been started in the training schools at the head-quarters of each Inspector's circle, the Deputy and Sub-Inspectors of the circle will be required to attend at the schools for a period of a month or six weeks to be instructed in the working of the new system.

When each Deputy Inspector or Sub-Inspector of Schools has completed his course of instruction at the training school, he will be required in all his future tours to call together at different centres, whether at thanas or at other convenient places in his subdivision, the Inspecting Pandits and the masters of such middle and primary schools of his beat as have sent up pupils for scholarships, in order to instruct them in the methods of teaching the new courses, and at the same time to explain carefully the character and design of the teachers' manuals.

The Deputy or Sub-Inspector will also, whenever he may visit any of the schools in which the new course has been or is to be adopted, be expected to explain and demonstrate practically to the masters or gurus the nature of the new subjects to be taught, and the proper method of teaching them. The recurrence at intervals of six or eight weeks of the Sub-Inspector's rounds will enable these officers to repeat and amplify their instructions, to ascertain and correct any mistakes or misapprehensions which may have occurred, and to inform themselves generally of the progress which each teacher may have made in dealing with a new system and of his capacity for further improvement. Each Sub-Inspector will have, on the average, 65 schools on the new system under his supervision.

It will also be desirable that the Deputy Inspector of each district should from time to time summon all Sub-Inspectors and Inspecting Pandits under his charge to some convenient centre, where there is a good school, which would be utilized as what might be termed a practising school for the demonstration of methods of instruction in a practical manner. Conferences thus convened might last for two or three weeks.

The Lieutenant-Governor is conscious that the scheme for the training of teachers is imperfect, but it will at least serve as a useful foundation for further developments in the required direction.

14. Sir John Woodburn has so far not made any allusion to the important matter of technical instruction. He wishes it to be distinctly understood that the primary object of giving a more practical turn to the general system of early education is not that of preparing boys for learning any particular trade or profession. The first aim of these reforms is here, as it has been in Europe and now under similar circumstances in Great Britain, to train and improve the intelligence of the young, whatever may be the future occupation of their life. The Irish Commissioners state that in their investigations on the Continent they "enquired particularly whether the literary side of school studies had suffered any loss by the change" and received a uniform assurance in every country "that no such loss had been observed, but that in some cases literary studies had been positively improved by the introduction of the new system, a result accounted for partly by the increased intelligence of the children, partly by the constant change and variety of their occupation, and partly by their increased interest in their work." It is true that the reformed methods will have the effect of giving to those boys who intend either to follow practical professions, such as those of Medicine and Engineering, or to take up as the occupation of their life any of the various trades and handicrafts of the country, a far better preparation than the narrower system hitherto in force. So far this is an immense gain. For, as the Irish Commissioners pointed out, "the present system of primary education is so one-sided in its character that it leaves the pupils quite unprepared for technical education." But, to quote their concluding words, "the system of education modified as we proposed" (and it may be noted that these proposals coincide in principle entirely with those embodied in the present scheme) "would give an all-round training to the faculties of the children and would thus lay a solid foundation for any system of higher education, literary, scientific, or technical, which might afterwards be found suitable to their talents and circumstances." The width of the Commissioners' enquiries gives a special weight to their findings, and the Lieutenant-Governor believes that the results of the system will not be different in Bengal from those which have followed it elsewhere.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution, with all the papers read and referred to in the preamble to this Resolution, be published for general information.

Rural primary schools.

PARA. 21. The instruction of the masses in such subjects as will best fit them for their position in life involves some differentiation in the courses for rural schools, especially in connection with the attempts which are being made to connect primary teaching with familiar objects. In Bombay a separate course of instruction, with standards of its own, is prescribed. In the Central Provinces a system of half-time schools has been successfully established, providing simple courses of instruction in the mornings for the children of agriculturists, who work in the fields during the rest of the day. This system seems worthy of imitation elsewhere; at present a similar experiment made in the Punjab has met with less success. The aim of the rural schools should be, not to impart definite agricultural teaching, but to give to the children a preliminary training which will make them intelligent cultivators, will train them to be observers, thinkers, and experimenters in however humble a manner, and will protect them in their business transactions with the landlords to whom they pay rent and the grain dealers to whom they dispose of their crops. The reading books prescribed should be written in simple language, not in unfamiliar literary style, and should deal with topics associated with rural life. The grammar taught should be elementary, and only native systems of arithmetic should be used. The village map should be thoroughly understood; and a most useful course of instruction may be given in the accountant's papers, enabling every boy before leaving school to master the intricacies of the village accounts and to understand the demands that may be made upon the cultivator. The Government of India regard it as a matter of the greatest importance to provide a simple, suitable, and useful type of school for the agriculturist, and to foster the demand for it among the population This and other reforms in primary schools will involve some revision of the pay of primary teachers which varies greatly, and in some provinces is too small to attract or to retain a satisfactory class of men. Thus in Bengal the rates fall as low as Rs. 5 per month, while the average pay in the Bombay Presidency rises to Rs. 17 and Rs. 18. The matter has been under consideration, and improvements will be made where they are most needed.

* * * * * * *

PARA. 41. Steps are also being taken to supply courses of training specially suited for teachers of rural schools. These do not attempt the impossible task of reforming the agricultural practice of the peasantry by the agency of village school-masters imbued with a smattering of scientific theory. They serve the more limited and practical purpose of supplying the village schools with teachers whose stock-in-trade is not mere book learning, and whose interests have been aroused in the study of rural things, so that they may be able to connect their teaching with the objects which are familiar to the children in the country schools. Various plans are being tried, such as drafting the teachers from the normal school to a Government farm and training them there for six months, or giving a continuous course at the normal school itself by means of lectures combined with practice in cultivating plots of ground or school-gardens. Experience will show which methods work best in different provinces, and it is not necessary to pronounce in favour of one plan to the exclusion of others.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph. Dinis pressure-tube anemometer and the Standard dial anemometer.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE DHAKA CANAL.

The 4th February 1905.

No. 6.—Notification.—With reference to Notification No. 49, dated 1st September 1903, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 2nd September 1903 at page 1157, and in exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78 and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Dhaka Canal, with effect from the 1st April 1905.

D. B. HORN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

1. The revenue administration of the Dhaka Canal is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Gandak Circle. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient condition, for the distribution of water to the lessees, and for the closing of the outlets in rotation when required; he is further responsible for the assessment of water-rates.

2. The Collector of the district is responsible for the collection of water-rates.

3. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

4. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those especially provided for in rule 14, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings of the case.

ON BLOCKS.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks demarcated by suitable boundaries, and in order to equalise the area to be dealt with each year, shall determine the date of expiry of the leases in each block, so that as far as practicable one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease every year.

6. Each block, determined as above, shall be numbered and marked on the maps to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officer, and shall also be recorded with its irrigable area in the registers to be kept by him.

ON APPLICATIONS.

7. Any person who requires a lease for water must apply to—

(a) the Sectional Officer, or
(b) the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

These applications must be made in writing and may be on plain paper.

The person receiving them shall enter on the back any further data required.

ON LEASES AND PERMITS.

8. Ordinarily 5-year leases may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block or a definite part of a block under the following conditions:—

(i) No lease for less than 10 acres shall be granted.
(ii) No lease shall be granted when the water must cross unleased lands, unless a suitable village channel exists.

9. Villages which apply for a lease less than five years in advance of the date of expiry fixed under rule 5 will only be granted leases for the remaining years of the term fixed for the block in which they are situated, so that all the leases within the same block may expire on the same date. These leases will be granted under the same conditions as 5-year leases.

10. The Divisional Canal Officer shall issue permits for long leases to the lessees through the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

When water is urgently required, the Subdivisional Canal Officer may grant a season lease which will be cancelled if the long lease is subsequently concluded. The Subdivisional Canal Officer may also issue season leases under rule 13 (III and IV).

When a lease is granted an agreement shall be taken in forms given in Appendices I and III and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in forms given in Appendices II and IV.

11. Water for filling tanks may be supplied when available for cash paid in advance; the water taken into the tanks may be used for irrigation or any other purpose (Forms of application and permit are given in Appendices V and VI).

12. Water may be supplied by measurement through a permanent outlet, when the working level of the water in the distributary can be kept fairly constant.

ON WATER-RATES.

13. The following rates will be charged for water, whether taken by lift or flow:—

		Rs.	A.
I.—Long leases,	16th June to 15th November ...	1	0	per acre.
II.—Season leases,	16th „ to 15th „ ...	1	8	„ „
III.— Ditto,	16th November to 28th February ...	0	8	„ „
IV.— Ditto,	1st March to 15th June ...	2	0	„ „
V.—Water supplied to tanks ...		1	0	„ 10,000 c. ft.

ON DEMAND STATEMENTS.

14. The statement of the amounts due for the water-rates leviable under these rules shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Divisional Canal Officer in such form as shall, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. A parcha showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator shall be sent to him through the cultivator's representative when the demand statement is sent to the Collector for realising the amounts. Persons charged under rule 24 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act if they desire to do so.

15. The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (I and II) shall be payable in two equal instalments, falling due respectively on the 1st January and 1st February following, but all sums of Rs. 10 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (III) shall fall due on the 1st April following.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (IV) shall fall due on the 1st July following.

The rates for water to be supplied under rule 13 (V) shall be payable before water is supplied.

16. Water-rates imposed under rule 24 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made and shall be realised at once.

ON REMISSIONS.

17. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or in part, shall be granted as follows:—

(i) By the Divisional Canal Officer for errors in assessment or rates.

(ii) By the Divisional Canal Officer for injury to a crop on a leased area caused by a deficiency in the supply of water.

A written application must be made at least 20 days before the crop is cut.

18. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

19. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is not realisable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

20. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act or making reference under section 17 of the Act the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

ON CULTIVATORS' REPRESENTATIVES.

21. When a lease is entered into, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall be generally acceptable to the cultivators and shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed. Jait raiyats or gumashtas shall usually be selected, or if it is undesirable in any particular case to appoint the jait raiyats or gumashtas, the reasons for passing them over and selecting others in preference are to be noted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer in the list of cultivators' representatives to be maintained by him.

22. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurement of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving parchas and distributing them.

VI.—In attending, when required, at enquiries and complaints.

VII.—In reporting to the silladars any mutations of holdings of persons who have signed a long lease.

VIII.—In assisting the tahsildar in collecting rates.

23. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his own occupation, which may be within the boundaries of the long lease, subject to a limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer may disallow this free irrigation and recover the rates, in whole or in part, from the jait raiyat or gumashta or other representative, if the assistance specified in rule 22 has not been efficiently rendered to the satisfaction of the local officers. The reasons for such disallowance are to be recorded in the list of cultivators' representatives maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

ON UNAUTHORISED IRRIGATION.

24. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre shall be charged; this rate may, however, be reduced at the discretion of the Divisional Canal Officer.

25. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken in an unauthorised manner, he shall hold a local investigation, and, if he considers that water has been taken in this way, he shall serve a notice on the persons liable to be assessed, fixing a date for hearing objections. Any objections made shall be taken down and the whole record forwarded to the Divisional Canal Officer for disposal.

26. The Divisional Canal Officer after hearing any objection that may be raised shall, if he is of opinion that the area should be assessed, fix the rates allowed under rule 24 and dispose of the case within one month of the receipt of the record from the Subdivisional Canal Officer. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorised irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

27. Applications may be subsequently received from villages in which unauthorised irrigation has been detected, and these villages may be granted leases; but in such cases the persons assessed under rule 24 shall also pay the water-rates due in respect of the lease subsequently granted, provided that the total of these two rates shall not exceed the maximum rate chargeable under rule 24. In such cases of double assessment the Divisional Canal Officer may remit, in whole or in part, the rates assessed under rule 24.

ON PENALTIES AND CANCELLING OF LEASES.

28. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st June next following.

29. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector, direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

(I) Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realising water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up; and also if specially so ordered, until half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

(II) Cancel any long lease if on the 1st June water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

(III) Cancel any lease of which the lands cannot be irrigated from the canal except by passing water over an unleased area.

MISCELLANEOUS.

30. No person shall, without the written permission of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass along or across any of the works, channels, or banks of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords, and ferries and their approaches as have been provided for the purpose.

31. Unless specially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operations of these rules, no officer employed on the canal shall have any interest in the distribution of water from it, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly or in shares with others.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE TEUR (MADHUBAN) CANAL.

The 4th February 1905.

No. 7.—Notification—With reference to Notification No. 101, dated 19th February 1884, which was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 20th February 1884 at page 366, and in exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 78 and 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Teur (Madhuban) Canal, with effect from the 1st April 1905.

D. B. HORN,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

1. The revenue administration of the Teur (Madhuban) Canal is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Gandak Circle. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient condition, for the distribution of water to the lessees, and for the closing of the outlets in rotation when required; he is further responsible for the assessment of water-rates.

2. The Collector of the district is responsible for the collection of water-rates.

3 Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers

4. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those especially provided for in rule 14 the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings of the case.

ON BLOCKS.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks demarcated by suitable boundaries, and in order to equalise the area to be dealt with each year, shall determine the date of expiry of the leases in each block, so that as far as practicable one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease every year.

6. Each block, determined as above, shall be numbered and marked on the maps to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officer, and shall also be recorded with its irrigable area in the registers to be kept by him.

ON APPLICATIONS.

7 Any person who requires a lease for water must apply to—

(a) the Sectional Officer, or
(b) the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

These applications must be made in writing and may be on plain paper.

The person receiving them shall enter on the back any further data required.

ON LEASES AND PERMITS.

8. Ordinarily 5-year leases may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or a definite part of a block, under the following conditions:—

(i) No lease for less than 10 acres shall be granted.
(ii) No lease shall be granted when the water must cross unleased lands, unless a suitable village channel exists.

9. Villages which apply for a lease less than five years in advance of the date of expiry fixed under rule 5 will only be granted leases for the remaining years of the term fixed for the block in which they are situated, so that all the leases within the same block may expire on the same date. These leases will be granted under the same conditions as 5-year leases.

10. The Divisional Canal Officer shall issue permits for long leases to the lessees through the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

When water is urgently required, the Subdivisional Canal Officer may grant a season lease which will be cancelled if the long lease is subsequently concluded. The Subdivisional Canal Officer may also issue season leases under rule 13 (III and IV).

When a lease is granted an agreement shall be taken in forms given in Appendices I and III, and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in the forms given in Appendices II and IV.

11. Water for filling tanks may be supplied when available for cash paid in advance, the water taken into the tank may be used for irrigation or any other purpose (Forms of application and permit are given in Appendices V and VI).

12. Water may be supplied by measurement through a permanent outlet, when the working level of the water in the distributary can be kept fairly constant.

ON WATER-RATES.

13. The following rates will be charged for water, whether taken by lift or flow:—

	Rs.	A.
I.—Long leases, 16th June to 15th November ...	1	0	per acre.
II.—Season leases, 16th „ to 15th „ ...	1	8	„
III.— Ditto, 16th November to 28th February ...	0	8	„
IV.— Ditto, 1st March to 15th June	2	0	„
V.—Water supplied to tanks	1	0	per 10,000 c. ft.

ON DEMAND STATEMENTS.

14. The statement of the amounts due for the water-rates leviable under these rules shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Divisional Canal Officer in such form as shall, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. A parcha showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator shall be sent to him through the cultivator's representative when the demand statement is sent to the Collector for realising the amounts. Persons charged under rule 24 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act if they desire to do so.

15. The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (I and II) shall be payable in two equal instalments, falling due respectively on the 1st January and 1st February following, but all sums of Rs 10 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (III) shall fall due on the 1st April following.

The rates for water supplied under rule 13 (IV) shall fall due on the 1st July following.

The rates for water to be supplied under rule 13 (V) shalll be payable before water is supplied.

16. Water-rates imposed under rule 24 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made and shall be realised at once.

ON REMISSIONS.

17. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or in part, shall be granted as follows:—

(i) By the Divisional Canal Officer for errors in assessment of rates.

(ii) By the Divisional Canal Officer for injury to a crop on a leased area caused by a deficiency in the supply of water.

A written application must be made at least 20 days before the crop is cut.

18. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

19. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is not realisable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

20. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act or making reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

ON CULTIVATORS' REPRESENTATIVES.

21. When a lease is entered into, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall be generally acceptable to the cultivators and shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed. Jait raiyats or gumashtas shall usually be selected, or if it is undesirable in any particular case to appoint the jait raiyats or gumashtas, the reasons for passing them over and selecting others in preference are to be noted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer in the list of cultivators' representatives to be maintained by him.

22. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurement of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving parchas and distributing them.

VI.—In attending, when required, at enquiries and complaints.

VII.—In reporting to the silladars any mutations of holdings of persons who have signed a long lease.

VIII.—In assisting the tahsildar in collecting rates.

23. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his own occupation, which may lie within the boundaries of the long lease, subject to a limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer may disallow this free irrigation, and recover the rates, in whole or in part, from the jait raiyat or gumashta or other representative, if the assistance, specified in rule 22, has not been efficiently rendered to the satisfaction of the local officers. The reasons for such disallowance are to be recorded in the list of cultivators' representatives maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

On unauthorised irrigation.

24. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre shall be charged; this rate may, however, be reduced at the discretion of the Divisional Canal Officer.

25. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken in an unauthorised manner, he shall hold a local investigation, and if he considers that water has been taken in this way, he shall serve a notice on the persons liable to be assessed fixing a date for hearing objections. Any objections made shall be taken down and the whole record forwarded to the Divisional Canal Officer for disposal.

26. The Divisional Canal Officer after hearing any objection that may be raised shall, if he is of opinion that the area should be assessed, fix the rates allowed under rule 24 and dispose of the case within one month of the receipt of the record from the Subdivisional Canal Officer. Water-rates shall not be charged, where the unauthorised irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

27. Applications may be subsequently received from villages in which unauthorised irrigation has been detected, and these villages may be granted leases; but in such cases the persons assessed under rule 24 shall also pay the water-rates due in respect of the lease subsequently granted, provided that the total of these two rates shall not exceed the maximum rate chargeable under rule 24. In such cases of double assessment the Divisional Canal Officer may remit, in whole or in part, the rates assessed under rule 24.

On penalties and cancelling of leases.

28. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st June next following.

29. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector, direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

(I) Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realising water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up; and also if specially so ordered, until half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

(II) Cancel any long lease if on the 1st June water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

(III) Cancel any lease of which the lands cannot be irrigated from the canal except by passing water over an unleased area.

Miscellaneous.

30. No person shall, without the written permission of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass along or across any of the works, channels or banks of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords, and ferries and their approaches as have been provided for the purpose.

31. Unless specially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operations of these rules, no officer employed on the canal shall have any interest in the distribution of water from it, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly or in shares with others.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal on the 11th February, 1905, and is hereby published for information, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons :—

THE BENGAL REPEALING BILL, 1905.

A

BILL

To repeal the Bengal Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1880. Ben. Act VIII of 1880.

WHEREAS it is expedient to repeal the Bengal Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1880; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Ben. Act VIII of 1880.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal Repealing Act, 1905; and

(2) It shall come into force on such day as may be appointed by the Local Government by notification in the Calcutta Gazette.

Repeal of Bengal Act VIII of 1880.

2. The Bengal Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1880, is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT is intended to introduce the Glanders and Farcy Act, 1899 (XIII of 1899), by notification under section 3 thereof, into all the areas in which Bengal Act VIII of 1880 is at present in force. The introduction of the former Act into those areas will render it unnecessary to retain the latter Act on the Statute Book. It is, accordingly, proposed to repeal Bengal Act VIII of 1880.

THE following Report of the Select Committee, together with the Bill as amended by them, is, by order of the President, published for information :—

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE ABOLITION OF THE OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER IN THE SUNDARBANS.

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee appointed to consider the Bill to provide for the abolition of the Office of Commissioner in the Sundarbans, have considered the Bill and the paper noted in the margin, and have the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill as amended by us annexed hereto.

Letter No. 15R.L., dated Calcutta, the 23rd January, 1905, from the Hon'ble Mr. E. W. Collin, I.C.S., Commissioner, Presidency Division

2. The amendments which we have made are printed in italics, and are explained in the following paragraphs.

3. Clause 3 of the Bill as introduced.—On consideration we are agreed that clause second of section 13 of Regulation III of 1828 deals only with the original demarcation of the outside boundary of the Sundarban jungle. As this boundary has already been demarcated, and the clause second in no way refers to the settlement and general administration of the Sundarbans tracts, we find that no good purpose will be served by the amendment of any portion of section 13 of the Regulation. We advise, therefore, that clause 3 should be omitted from the Bill as introduced.

4. Clause 3.—By section 2 of Regulation IX of 1816 the Commissioner in the Sundarbans was vested with all the duties, powers and authority (including the charge of the ábkári máhal) which would ordinarily be exercised by the Collector of a district. Though, on abolition of the Office of Commissioner in the Sundarbans, these duties, powers and authority would naturally revert to the Collector (and in fact they actually did so when the Commissionership was for a period held in abeyance), we consider it advisable that it should be clearly enacted that the respective Collectors shall resume them.

5. Clause 4.—Grants, leases, agreements and amalnamas relating to land in the Sundarbans have generally contained references to action to be taken by the Commissioner in the Sundarbans. This wording may give rise to difficulties under the proposed administration. The new clause 4 will make provision for interpretation in such circumstances, and has been drawn to include such references in any written instrument relating to land in the Sundarbans.

6. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended, be passed.

3. All the powers and functions heretofore vested in and exercised by the Commissioner in the Sundarbans in any district shall henceforth be vested in and exerciseable by the Collector of that district. [Cf. Reg. IX 1816, s. 2.]

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

THE NORTHERN SECTION OF THE EASTERN BENGAL STATE RAILWAY.

The Hon'ble MR. CHAUDHURI asked:—

(a) Is it a fact that, with a view to cope with the increased traffic on the Northern Section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway and to accelerate the speed of the Darjeeling Mail Train, it has been proposed to introduce much heavier engines along the line, and is it the case that work is actually in progress, which when completed will reduce the number of bridges and culverts along the line and dam up many of the water-courses, such as the Narad, etc., in the neighbourhood of the Natore and Gopalpore Railway Stations, to save the cost of re-building the bridges and culverts which were meant for much lighter traffic, and is it also the case that the height of the existing bridges over navigable rivers along the line is being reduced with a view to avoid necessary costs of construction of bridges fit for such heavy traffic?

(b) Having regard to the fact that competent authorities attribute the prevalence of malarial fever and other epidemic diseases in many districts of Bengal to, amongst other causes, the obstruction of the natural drainage of the country by Railway embankments, and that malarial fever and cholera have been very prevalent along the line, particularly above and below Natore, has the Government of Bengal been consulted, and has this Government considered whether the scheme of Railway re-construction above referred to will not seriously affect the health of the people along the line of the said Railway?

(c) Will the Government be pleased to state what profits were made by the Northern Section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway during the year 1903-04 and during the last half-year, and how much has been sanctioned for the work of re-construction above referred to? Will the Government be pleased also to lay on the table a plan of the re-construction showing the existing bridges and culverts and the proposed alterations?

The Hon'ble MR. HORN replied:—

"I propose to answer together the questions (a) and (b) which have been asked by the Hon'ble Member.

"It is a fact that heavier engines have been lately introduced on the Metre Gauge Section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway. The type of engine has been selected by the Standardization Committee appointed by the Secretary of State and it will in future be adopted on Metre Gauge lines.

"The girders on the Metre Gauge Section of the Eastern Bengal State Railway were constructed many years ago and were designed for lighter loads than those permitted by present Standards. The work now in progress on the Northern Section has been undertaken in order to strengthen the bridges to admit of the unrestricted use of the new Standard Metre Gauge Engines.

"While the girders are being altered or renewed, advantage is being taken to cut out spans which the experience of many years has shown to be redundant. Certain girders are therefore being removed and the openings beneath them filled up. There are 22 bridges containing in all 132 openings. It is intended to fill up 31 of these openings; but in no instance will any bridge be closed or the passage hitherto provided for cattle or small boats be restricted.

"No water-courses whatever are to be dammed up or interfered with; nor will the number of bridges and culverts be reduced.

"With regard to navigable rivers the girder alterations will affect the following rivers, viz., the Burral, the Narud, the Godar, the Pangul, and the Atrai. At the Burral, Godar, and Pangul rivers, the headway of the spans used for navigation is not being interfered with, but in spans not necessary to the navigation of the channels the girders are being lowered by 2 to 3 feet. At the Burral bridge which consists of 15 spans of 60 feet one span which is quite high and dry even in the flood season is being filled up. The Narud river has silted up to such an extent as to be useless except for very small boats. It contains two land spans of 40 feet and a centre span of 60 feet. The north span is quite dry and is being filled up. The centre span is being altered to two spans of 30 feet. The south span is quite dry; but as a road passes under it it will be retained. The girders on the Narud bridge are to be lowered about 3 feet, as the headway originally provided for boats of considerable size is not now required. The Atrai Bridge is being lowered 3 feet with the consent of the District Magistrate. The headway of 15 feet above highest flood level is greater than that provided at many more important river crossings on the Metre Gauge Section.

"(c).—Separate accounts are not kept for the Northern Section as distinct from the other Metre Gauge portions of the Eastern Bengal State Railway system. I would refer the Hon'ble Member to the Annual Administration Report for the calendar year 1903, Appendix 12, pages 48 and 49 The report for 1904 has not yet been published. The figures for the half-year ending the 31st December, 1904, are not yet available. The approximate cost of the alterations now in progress is Rs. 97,000, which is only part of a three years' programme. The estimate for strengthening the girders, which amounts to Rs. 2,74,000, has been approved by the Government of India.

"No general plan of the re-construction has been prepared, as only detailed drawings of the girders for the various bridges are necessary to admit of the carrying out of the work."

EXPENDITURE ON PLAGUE AND MALARIA.

The Hon'ble MR. CHAUDHURI asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the deaths from plague and from malarious fever in Bengal for 1900-01, 1901-02, 1902-03, 1903-04 and the money spent out of the public funds on measures, precautionary or otherwise, in respect of plague and malarious fever, respectively?

The Hon'ble MR. SHIRRES replied:—

"A statement has been placed on the table showing, for the years referred to, the reported deaths from 'plague' and 'fever.' How many of the deaths under the latter head were due to malaria is not known, but it may be mentioned that in Dinajpur Captain Rogers enquired into the cause of death in 1,000 cases attributed to fever and found that death was due to malaria in only 31·8 per cent. of the cases.

"The accounts do not completely separate the expenditure on plague, but the information, so far as it is available, is also shown. The expenditure on account of malaria cannot be separately given. It would have to include not only the cost of producing and distributing quinine but a large part of the expenditure incurred under the heads of 'medical' 'sanitation' and 'drainage.'

Statement referred to in the above answer.

SALARIES OF MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR said:—

It appears from the Financial Statement for the year 1904-05 that a sum of four lakhs of rupees was provided therein for the increase of the salaries of Ministerial Officers, and in course of the debate which took place upon the Statement on the 16th April, 1904, it was stated on behalf of the Government that inquiries had been made and schemes submitted to the Government of India in connection with such provision. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor was further pleased to observe that the matter which had his cordial sympathy "will receive the closest attention from the Bengal Government during this year." Now that the year is drawing to its close may I inquire—

(a) whether this Government has received the sanction of the Government of India to the schemes above referred to?

(b) if so, will the Government be pleased to state when these hard-worked and ill-paid ministerial officers are likely to obtain the relief contemplated by the above provision?

(c) if the Government of India have not yet accorded such sanction, will the Government be pleased to inform the Council what the schemes are and what further action it proposes to take with a view to give effect to them?

The Hon'ble MR. SHIRRES replied:—

"The scheme has not yet been sanctioned. The Government of India find that there are certain matters to be cleared up before they can submit it to the Secretary of State. Government regrets the necessity for delay; for it is very desirous of seeing a sound scheme carried through."

LEVY OF ROAD CESS AND INCOME-TAX ON NON-AGRICULTURAL LANDS, ETC.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR asked:—

(a) Is the Government aware that the value of all hát, fair, homestead and other non agricultural lands is availed of for the purposes of assessment of both the road cess as well as the income-tax? And will the Government be pleased to consider whether the levying of both these taxes upon the same land is or is not illegal and inequitable?

(b) Has the attention of the Government been called to the case of Umed Rasul Shaha Fakir vs. Anath Bandhu Choudhury decided by the Calcutta High Court (Rampini and Gupta, JJ.) and reported in 28 I. L. R. (Cal.) 637, in which it has been distinctly held that the Board's Rule No. 33 of 1900 under which the road cess is levied upon such lands is ultra vires? And even apart from this decision, will the Government, in consideration of the manifest hardship which it entails on the tax-payers, be pleased to order the withdrawal or modification of the said or any subsequent similar rules of the Board of Revenue?

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked:—

(a) Does the Government levy both income-tax and road cess in respect of lands where hâts and mélas are held?

(b) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the ruling reported in I. L. R., 28 Cal., p. 637, where the High Court has held that the rule of the Board of Revenue directing payment of cess in respect of profits of hâts and fairs is ultra vires?

(c) Has the rule abovementioned been abrogated? If not, will the Government be pleased to direct that the said rule be withdrawn?

The Hon'ble MR. SHIRRES replied:—

"(a) It will be seen from section 5 (a) of the Income Tax Act and section 6 of the Road Cess Act that the law contemplates the payment both of income-tax and of cesses in respect of rent or revenue derived from land which is not used for agricultural purposes. The Lieutenant-Governor does not regard these provisions of the law as inequitable.

"(b) The Board's Rule No. 34 of 1900 which was declared by the ruling of the High Court to be ultra vires was, under the advice of the Legal Remembrancer, superseded by the Board's Revenue Circular No. 2 of March, 1902. The High Court ruled that the profits of a mela are not assessable to Road Cess. This had always been accepted by the Board and the assessment animadverted upon by the High Court was contrary to the Board's intention. A revised circular was issued to make it more clear that only the rent can be assessed to Road and Public Works Cesses. The Lieutenant-Governor does not propose to order the modification or withdrawal of their circular."

EXPENSES OF WITNESSES IN CRIMINAL COURTS.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR said:—

May I invite the attention of the Government to the "Revised rules for the payment on the part of the Government of the expenses of the complainants and witnesses attending the Criminal Courts" passed in 1893? These rules provide diet allowances at the rates of only 2 annas per diem for ordinary labouring classes and 4 annas only for Indians of higher rank in life, which in these days of high prices all round are hardly sufficient even for an ordinary single meal of an individual of the respective classes for whom these rates are intended, and which probably also account to some extent for the unwillingness of witnesses in accepting summons of the Criminal Courts. Under the circumstances will the Government be pleased to consider the present inadequacy of these rates and revise the aforesaid rules so as to provide a suitable rate for the diet and other allowances of these people?

The Hon'ble MR. CARLYLE replied:—

"The Bengal Government has already instituted enquiries as to the adequacy of the rates now allowed on account of complainants and witnesses attending the Criminal Courts so far as the labouring classes are concerned. It will extend its enquiries to the question of the rates allowed to other classes."

LANDLORDS' FEES.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR said:—

In reply to my question about the "Landlords' fees held in deposit" asked at a meeting of the Council held on the 7th January, 1905, the Hon'ble Mr. Earle said that these deposits "become the property of Government by lapse of time" and are incorporated with the Provincial Revenues of Government for meeting its ordinary expenditure.

Will the Government be pleased to state—

(a) under what law and by what lapse of time these deposits have become the property of Government?

(b) whether these deposits are not trust property kept in the hand of Government by tenants for payment to their landlords, and as such are incapable of being forfeited to Government by any lapse of time?

(c) whether any demand for payment has yet been made by any of the payees in case of any of the deposits referred to in my question alluded to above?

(d) will the Government be pleased to take the opinion of its Legal advisers as to whether these deposits have or can legally become the property of Government, and as to whether they are not still liable to be either paid to the landlords or refunded to the tenants when demands may be made by either of them?

The Hon'ble MR. EARLE replied:—

"(1) The question of the Hon'ble Member seems to be based upon a misapprehension. If he will peruse again the reply which I gave to the question asked at the meeting of this Council held on the 7th January, 1905, he will observe that I did not say, as he alleges, that 'landlords' fees 'become the property of Government by lapse of time,' and thus form part of the consolidated revenue of the Provincial Government which is required to meet its ordinary expenditure. What I said was that, 'in so far as these deposits become the property of Government by lapse of time, they form part of the consolidated revenue of the Provincial Government, which is required to meet its ordinary expenditure.' That reply was given after legal advice had been taken as to the circumstances in which these fees may become the property of Government; and the Lieutenant-Governor is not prepared to enter into further disquisition on the subject.

"(2) Government has no information whether any tenant has ever applied for the refund of any money deposited by him as a landlord's fee. Applications are made from time to time by landlords for fees deposited in their favour, and, when they are found to be valid, payments are made.

"(3) It may be added that, if it were held that these deposits are money held in trust for others by Government, the previous suggestion made by the Hon'ble Member on the 7th January, 1905, that Government should divert them for the benefit of District Boards, could not be entertained."

THE SUBORDINATE EXECUTIVE SERVICE.

The Hon'ble BABU AMBIKA CHARAN MAZUMDAR asked :—

Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the names, age, race, and the educational qualifications (i. e., whether passed the University Entrance, F.A., B.A, or M.A. examinations), the past services and other recommendations, if any, of each and all of the persons who have been admitted into the Subordinate Executive Service as Deputy Collectors and Sub-Deputy Collectors under its recent Resolution No. 5649A., dated the 26th December, 1904, by which the test of competitive examination for the recruitment of such service has been withdrawn?

The Hon'ble MR. CARLYLE replied:—

"No one has yet been admitted into the Subordinate Executive Service under the Resolution referred to. If the Hon'ble Member had read the rules annexed to the Resolution, he would have seen that nominations will not be received under its provisions until 1st October next."

THE VICTORIA JUTE MILLS

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked :—

Has the Government exempted the Victoria Jute Mill premises of Messrs. Thomas Duff & Co. within the Bhadreswar Municipality from the provisions of Part IX of the Bengal Municipal Act? If not, will the Government be pleased to state why no latrine-fee has been collected for the said Mill premises since first quarter of 1904? Is the Chairman of the said Municipality an employé of the said Company?

The Hon'ble MR. SHIRRES replied:—

"To the first part of the question the answer is in the negative and to the third part in the affirmative. Regarding the second part the Government has no information. The information may be obtained by means of a question at a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners or from an examination of the accounts, which, under section 71 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, are open to the inspection of any tax-payer."

SEPTIC TANKS AT SHAMNAGAR.

The Hon'ble BABU BHUPENDRA NATH BASU asked :—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether there are septic tanks in use at the Shamnagar or Teliniparah Jute Mills of the same Messrs. Thomas Duff & Co.? Are these installations situated much nearer to the Palta Water-works intake than any other inspected by the Septic Tank Committee? If so, why were not these installations inspected by the said Committee?

The Hon'ble MR. SHIRRES replied :—

"The Hon'ble Member must be referred to the Report of the Committee for the reasons which governed the selection of the Mills they visited."

THE BENGAL SMOKE-NUISANCES BILL, 1904.

The Hon'ble Mr. Carlyle moved that the time for the preparation of the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the abatement of nuisances arising from the smoke of furnaces or fire-places in the town and suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah, and to provide for the extension thereof to other areas in Bengal, be further extended to the 4th March next. He said :—

"All the replies have not yet been received and it is very desirable that the Select Committee should not begin work until they all come in."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

THE SUNDARBANS BILL, 1904.

The Hon'ble Mr. Hare presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the abolition of the office of Commissioner in the Sundarbans. He said :—

"The Report requires no remarks from me. It is full and complete in itself, so I merely make this application."

THE BENGAL REPEALING BILL, 1905.

The Hon'ble Mr. Earle moved for leave to introduce a Bill to repeal the Bengal Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1880. He said :—

"I beg for leave to introduce into the Council the Bengal Repealing Act, 1905. As Hon'ble Members will gather from the Statement of Objects and Reasons, the purport of the Bill is to withdraw the Bengal Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1880, from all the areas within which that Act is at present in force and to introduce into those areas the Glanders and Farcy Act, 1899. The Bengal Act of 1880 applies, by virtue of section 1, to the town of Calcutta as defined by the notification of the 10th September, 1877. It has been extended, by orders published under section 14, to portions of Howrah, Sonepur, Kalimpong and Barhapur, its application being limited in the case of the last three places to the periods during which fairs are held there. When the Bill now under consideration becomes law, Act XIII of 1899 will be extended by notification to all those places. That Act is gradually being extended to all districts of the Province; and it has already been introduced into all the districts of the Patna Division, the Sonthal Parganas, Dacca, Burdwan and Hooghly, besides several municipalities.

"The Bengal Act of 1880 has been found in practice to be wholly ineffectual in checking the spread of contagious and infectious diseases amongst animals. In the first place its working depends entirely upon the initiative of the police; and police officers have neither the technical knowledge to enable them to detect the existence of the diseases referred to, nor the time required for coping successfully with them. On the other hand, under Act XIII of 1899 specially qualified whole-time officers will be employed to carry out work under the Act under the supervision of the Superintendent of the Veterinary Department. In the next place, the power of entry and search conferred by section 7 of the Bengal Act is altogether insufficient. That section lays down that an Inspector of Police must have reasonable grounds for supposing that a horse is affected with disease or has lately been so infected before he can make a search in any place. This condition alone makes the Act impracticable, inasmuch as it is only by actual examination that it is possible to form an opinion whether an animal is or is not diseased. Sections 5 and 7 of Act XIII of 1899 give the requisite powers in this respect. Thirdly, the Bengal Act makes no provision for dealing with animals that have been in contact with diseased horses. This is a serious omission which is made good by section 11 of the India Act.

"I think that I have said quite enough to show that Act XIII of 1899 is superior to the Bengal Act in essential matters. The need of introducing it into Calcutta, Howrah and the neighbouring municipalities has long been recognised as a very pressing want. There is every reason to believe that glanders is far more rife than is apparent from the statistics yet collected; and even these are sufficiently serious to make preventive measures essential. The difficulty of introducing the Act hitherto has been the want of funds for the purpose. It has very properly been held that it was useless to introduce the Act into a big city like Calcutta until it had been found possible to provide funds for a really efficient and trustworthy staff. In this respect it is proposed to follow the example of Bombay city, where the diseases referred to have been suppressed without friction owing to the efficiency of the staff employed. In Calcutta and its neighbourhood there will be appointed one Chief Inspector, who will also be a Veterinary Practitioner, and seven Inspectors, who will also be Veterinary Practitioners. These men will work under the immediate control of the Superintendent of the Veterinary Department at Belgatchia. When rules are framed under section 14 of the Act, the rules which have worked with conspicuous success in Bombay will be adopted as far as practicable.

"I would invite attention to section 6 of the Bengal Act. Under section 6 of that Act when a hospital for contagious diseases is established in Calcutta, the expenses of the same shall, so far as is necessary, be a first charge on the surplus fees levied on the registration of hackney-carriages under Bengal Act V of 1866. There was a hospital of this kind in Calcutta up to the year 1901; but in that year it was removed to Belgatchia, the Calcutta Corporation consenting to pay a sum of Rs. 15 a month towards the cost of the establishment maintained in connection with that institution. It is not thought necessary to retain this section and the connected sections, inasmuch as there is no prospect of bringing the hospital for contagious diseases back to Calcutta.

"Lastly, on general grounds, it is very undesirable to retain the Bengal Act on the Statute Book on the introduction of the India Act, because if it were so retained, there would be two co-ordinate agencies working under different Acts in the same area, viz., the police working under the Commissioner of Police under the former Act and the Special Inspectors working under the Superintendent of the Veterinary Department under the latter Act. These are all the remarks that I consider it necessary to make on the present occasion."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Earle introduced the Bill and moved that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to, and the Bill was read accordingly.

The Council was then adjourned to Saturday, the 4th March, 1905.

FINAL FORECAST ON THE SUGARCANE CROP OF BENGAL, 1904.

THE following note is published for general information.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST ON THE SUGARCANE CROP OF BENGAL, 1904.

Character of the season.—The character of the season most favourable for the sugarcane crop was scarcely obtained anywhere during the past year. Rain fell generally in the planting season which extends from January to April. Excessive rain however spoils the crop at the early stage of its growth, and this condition prevailed in many districts; while drought generally prevailed in September and October when copious rainfall is not harmful. Rainfall sufficient for the sowing season was obtained everywhere in January and February. In Burdwan and Chittagong Divisions, rainfall was above the normal in February. In March, the Chota Nagpur Division, and in April the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, had more than normal rainfall, though Burdwan, Patna and Chota Nagpur Divisions suffered somewhat from drought during April. In May and June the rainfall was generally excessive specially in the Chota Nagpur Division, where however the effects of excessive rainfall are never so injurious as the effects of drought. In July again, except in Orissa, rainfall was in excess almost everywhere. In August Orissa received its normal rainfall, the districts of the Patna and Chota Nagpur Divisions as well as Bhagalpur and Monghyr received an excess, and the remaining districts of the Province had a short rainfall. In September and October drought prevailed almost everywhere, and from the middle of September to the middle of October there was hardly any rainfall anywhere. In the latter part of October there was good rainfall specially in Bihar. In East Bengal and in Murshidabad late floods did some damage to the standing crop; while the rest of the Province continued to suffer from drought to the end of the year.

2. Area sown.—The normal area under sugarcane in this Province is now estimated at 675,900 acres, against 690,300 acres reported in the preliminary forecast. The decrease is due to the revision of figures by the Collector of Mymensingh. The actual area planted this year under sugarcane is 637,800 acres, against 632,400 acres in the previous year. This improvement is evidently due to the favourable conditions that prevailed at the planting season. The estimate of normal area is based upon ascertained facts in only 22 districts which have been wholly or to a great extent surveyed. The normal acreage under sugarcane in this area is 258,358, and the actual acreage this year, 241,256.

3. Character of the crop.—As will appear from Appendix I, the crop in ten districts, viz., in Birbhum, Khulna, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Pabna, Faridpur, Gaya, Monghyr, Sonthal Parganas and Hazaribagh is estimated at above the normal. In 14 districts, viz., in Bankura, 24-Parganas, Bogra, Rangpur, Dacca, Mymensingh, Chittagong, Darbhanga, Bhagalpur, Malda, Balasore, Angul, Puri and Palamau the crop is estimated at between 90 and 99 per cent. In the remaining 21 districts the estimate is from 60 to 89 per cent., the worst crops being reported from Murshidabad, Champaran, Saran, Shahabad, Ranchi, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling and Burdwan. Since the publication of the preliminary forecast in July, prospects improved only in seven districts and deteriorated in 19. According to the present estimate of the District Officers, the outturn of the crop for the whole Province is 88 per cent. of a normal crop. In the important sugarcane growing districts, the crop has been somewhat under-estimated, and I anticipate a provincial outturn of 90 per cent., thus lowering my July estimate by 2 per cent. on account of the loss caused at the end of the season by drought.

. Gross outturn.—Taking the provincial outturn at 90 per cent., the probable gross outturn of cane-gur or raw sugar at 22 cwt. per acre comes to 12,628,400 cwt. as compared with 13,078,000 cwt. produced last year.

Other sources of gur.—The information available on this subject is still very incomplete, but the total amount of sugar and gur produced from the juice of the date-palm seems to be considerable, the figures obtainable working up to 3,257,172 cwt. The figures for sugar derived from the palmyra palm and other sources work up to 10,710 cwt.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1135, dated the 21st January 1905, in which you recommend that Government should accept the offer made by Kumar Saradindu Roy of Balihar to contribute Rs. 6,000 towards the construction of a separate building for the common room to be attached to the Rajshahi College on condition that Government should contribute at least an equal sum for the purpose, and that the main hall of the building should be called after his father, Raja Kristendra Roy Bahadur. You state that if the offer is accepted, you will endeavour to provide the funds required from Government out of the budget estimates of the Education Department for 1905-1906, and submit rough plans and estimates of the building for administrative sanction.

2. In reply, I am to say that the Lieutenant-Governor considers it desirable to encourage local self help, and is pleased to accept the offer made by Kumar Saradindu Roy on the conditions proposed. I am to request that the thanks of Government may be conveyed to the donor for his liberality, and that you will be so good as to submit the necessary plan and estimate and suggest re-appropriation from the Education Budget for 1905-06 showing how the amount required from Government can be met.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the New Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 80, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV and V of the official tables composed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. Rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day

The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks demarcated by suitable boundaries, and in order to equalise the area to be dealt with each year, shall determine the date of expiry of the leases in each block, so that as far as practicable one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease every year.

6. Each block, determined as above, shall be numbered and marked on the maps to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officer, and shall also be recorded with its irrigable area in the registers to be kept by him.

These leases will be granted under the same conditions as 5-year leases.

20. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act or making reference under section 17 of the Act the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

ON CULTIVATORS' REPRESENTATIVES.

21. When a lease is entered into, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall be generally acceptable to the cultivators and shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed. Jait raiyats or gumashtas shall usually be selected, or if it is undesirable in any particular case to appoint the jait raiyats or gumashtas, the reasons for passing them over and selecting others in preference are to be noted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer in the list of cultivators' representatives to be maintained by him.

22. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

23. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his own occupation, which may lie within the boundaries of the long lease, subject to a limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer may disallow this free irrigation and recover the rates, in whole or in part, from the jait raiyat or gumashta or other representative, if the assistance specified in rule 22 has not been efficiently rendered to the satisfaction of the local officers. The reasons for such disallowance are to be recorded in the list of cultivators' representatives maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

ON UNAUTHORISED IRRIGATION.

24. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre shall be charged; this rate may, however, be reduced at the discretion of the Divisional Canal Officer.

25. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken in an unauthorised manner, he shall hold a local investigation, and, if he considers that water has been taken in this way, he shall serve a notice on the persons liable to be assessed, fixing a date for hearing objections. Any objections made shall be taken down and the whole record forwarded to the Divisional Canal Officer for disposal.

26. The Divisional Canal Officer after hearing any objection that may be raised shall, if he is of opinion that the area should be assessed, fix the rates allowed under rule 24 and dispose of the case within one month of the receipt of the record from the Subdivisional Canal Officer. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorised irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

27. Applications may be subsequently received from villages in which unauthorised irrigation has been detected, and these villages may be granted leases; but in such cases the persons assessed under rule 24 shall also pay the water-rates due in respect of the lease subsequently granted, provided that the total of these two rates shall not exceed the maximum rate chargeable under rule 24. In such cases of double assessment the Divisional Canal Officer may remit, in whole or in part, the rates assessed under rule 24.

ON PENALTIES AND CANCELLING OF LEASES.

28. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st June next following.

29. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector, direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

(I) Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realising water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up; and also if specially so ordered, until half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

(II) Cancel any long lease if on the 1st June water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

(III) Cancel any lease of which the lands cannot be irrigated from the canal except by passing water over an unleased area.

MISCELLANEOUS.

30. No person shall, without the written permission of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass along or across any of the works, channels, or banks of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords, and ferries and their approaches as have been provided for the purpose.

FIRST FORECAST OF THE WHEAT CROP OF BENGAL, 1904-1905.

THE following note is published for general information.

A. EARLE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 21st February 1905.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First forecast of the Wheat crop of Bengal, 1904-1905.

Preliminary.—Wheat is grown chiefly in Bihar, and in the districts of Murshidabad, Nadia, Rajshahi, Rangpur, Pabna, Palamau and Hazaribagh.

2. Character of the season.—The conditions most favourable for the wheat crop are a moist condition of the soil in October and occasional light showers during the next three months. Dry cold is helpful, and the deltaic area of the Province is therefore unsuitable for this crop. The rainfall of October throughout the wheat districts was very favourable. Drought prevailed since then until January, when rainfall was again general. Murshidabad and Nadia received very little rainfall in October and scarcely any since then until January, when a hail-storm did considerable damage in Murshidabad. The outturn in these two districts will be only about 60 per cent. All the other important wheat districts have enjoyed favourable conditions.

3. Area sown —The total normal area under wheat in the Province now stands at 1,504,500 acres against 1,498,500 acres returned last year, the increase being due to revision of figures by the District officers of Bhagalpur and Purnea. The actual area sown this year is returned as 1,448,400 acres against 1,508,300 acres of last year. The decrease is due to rain coming very late in the sowing season. In the case of Patna, Muzaffarpur and Cuttack both the normal and actual areas are based on ascertained data, i.e., on survey figures. The figures for normal areas only, returned by Saran, Champaran and Darbhanga are also similarly obtained from actual data. The remaining figures are either wholly or partly approximations.

4. Character of the crop.—From the Apperdix it will be seen that nine districts have returned 100 per cent. crop, seven districts between 90 and 99 per cent., seven districts 80 to 89 per cent., seven districts 70 to 79 per cent. and only six districts less than 65 per cent. The three districts, viz., Jessore, Angul and Ranchi, which have returned the worst crops, are unimportant as wheat growing districts. According to the estimate of District Officers, the outturn for the whole Province works out to 90 per cent., but, considering the favourable condition of rainfall during the past month, I am inclined to raise the estimate to 95 per cent. of a normal crop.

FORECAST OF THE LATE COTTON CROP OF BENGAL, 1904-1905.

THE following note is published for general information.

A. EARLE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 21st February 1905.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Forecast of the late Cotton crop of Bengal, 1904-1905.

Character of the season.—The late cotton is grown in sixteen districts of this Province, the most important being Saran, Muzaffarpur, Cuttack and Singhbhum. It is not grown in Bengal proper, except to a small extent in Midnapore and Bankura. Heavy rain, i.e., a rainfall of 6 inches or more per month, is highly injurious to this crop at the early part of the growing season, while it can stand almost absolute drought during the latter part of the season. The sowing season is different in different localities. In most places the crop is sown in September, while in Orissa and in parts of Manbhum sowing is done after rainfall in December or January. Favourable conditions prevailed only in the districts of Patna and Balasore, and the prospects in these two districts therefore are the best. In the districts of Saran and Champaran, on the other hand, unfavourable conditions prevailed, in the sowing season in the case of Champaran, where only 1·12 inches of rain were obtained against the normal of 0·89 inches, and in the early part of the growing season in the case of Saran, where in October 7·29 inches of rain were obtained against the normal of 2·67 inches. Owing to the injury caused by drought at the sowing season, Champaran expects only a 50 per cent. crop, while, owing to the injury done by excess of rainfall at the early part of the growing season, Saran expects an outturn of 85 per cent. In Bhagalpur and Manbhum the conditions were generally favourable, and a 93 per cent. and 89 per cent. crop, respectively, are expected in these two districts. In the remaining districts, where drought generally prevailed from September onwards, the crop is estimated at between 52 and 84 per cent.

2. Area sown.—Special enquiries were made throughout the year with regard to the area and yield under both varieties of cotton. Since the issue of a circular to District Officers, which tabulated the results of these enquiries up to last August, the travelling Overseers of this Department were deputed to help the District officers in a further enquiry, and the present forecast gives the results, though it cannot by any means be yet regarded either as final or even satisfactory. The total normal area now returned is 41,000 acres against 50,200 acres of last year's forecast, and against 40,400 acres ascertained at the special enquiry concluded before last August. The area planted this year is returned as 37,800 acres against 39,900 acres of last year's forecast, which was subsequently revised to 38,700 acres. Of the normal and actual areas under late cotton returned this year, only 26,036 acres and 8,065 acres, respectively, are derived from ascertained data, the estimate for the remaining areas being only approximations. Thus the whole of the normal areas returned by Saran, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga and Puri and the actual areas for this year returned by Muzaffarpur, Darbhanga and Puri are derived from survey papers.

3. Character of the crop.—According to the estimates furnished by District Officers, the provincial outturn comes to 75 per cent., but, considering the favourable character of the rainfall last month, the crop that will be actually harvested is not likely to fall below 80 per cent. of a normal crop.

4. Gross outturn.—According to the district estimates the total yield of the crop calculated at 75 per cent. will be 5,106,100 lbs. Information regarding outturn is being collected by crop-picking experiments, but is not yet complete. Adding 5 per cent., the total yield this year according to my estimate comes to 5,361,400 lbs.
